Crowning moments

Lake County Fair queens active in their communities

LITTLE MISS LAKE COUNTY KIERSTIN THOMPSON, 7
LIBERTYVILLE

Thompson is no stranger to the spotlight. The littlest of the queens only recently relinquished her Little Miss Libertyville 2004 crown.

When she's not busy with queenly duties, she can be found volunteering at the Winchester House, browsing through her village's farmers' market in Cook Park or socializing during Out-to-Lunch.

JR. MISS LAKE COUNTY MARY McCURE, 13
GRAYSLAKE

The soon-to-be eighth grader keeps herself busy with student council, volleyball, cheerleading and softball when she isn't preparing for pageants (this was her eighth). She also is active in local volunteer work.

McCure is pursuing a new passion: starting a band. An acoustic guitar enthusiast, she hopes to team up with fellow classmates and see where it goes from there.

MISS LAKE COUNTY MARY ARZER, 19
MUNDELEIN

Arzer, who won her village's Jr. Miss (1998) and Miss (2002) will be a sophomore at Carthage College, where she is double majoring in physical education and sports science, putting her knowledge to work at a Lake Forest day camp, teaching fitness to children in grades K-3.

She'll now try for the crown of Miss Illinois State Fair.

Participants impressed with experience of Relay for Life

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Residents from Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst responded to the call to raise money in the fight against cancer. They were part of a program across the county, state and country honoring cancer survivors and those who lost their fight.

The Relay was at Lakes High School in Lake Villa and began at 6 p.m. and continued until 6 a.m. the following morning. Thirty-eight teams had collected money and vowed to keep a team member on the track for the entire 12 hours. There were 10 to 15 members on a team and each team had agreed to try to bring in $1,000.

Rather than a somber event, the Relay for Life was a celebration that many found to be uplifting and inspirational. There were a variety of activities for the hundreds of people who were there, including children. When it was not an individuals turn to walk around the track they could amuse themselves in a number of ways. There were hula hoop contests, DJs and music.

Each team set up campsites with tents, sleeping bags, lawn chairs and decorated it according to their chosen theme. Some of the themes were a café in Paris, Hawaiians in grass skirts, a Pageantry team whose members wore crowns and did the 'pageant wave' as they walked.

Michelle Mackowiak and Heather Bednar, both will be freshman at Antioch High School this fall, participate in the Relay for Life at Lakes Community High School in Lake Villa. Mackowiak and Bednar raised over $400 to be donated to the American Cancer Society.

"It was a celebration of lives and a celebration of the lives that lost the fight," Mary Turner said. "I didn't hear a cross word. It was joyous and there was laughter. It literally raised everyone up."

Antioch man charged with aggravated battery

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Lucas J. Neuhaus, 22, of 333 Harden St., Antioch, was charged with armed violence and aggravated assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly stabbed a 24-year-old Lindenhurst man. This happened in the alley behind 914 Main St. in Antioch, according to Commander Craig Somerville.

Antioch Police responded to a call about the stabbing at 3:30 a.m. last Saturday and found the victim with multiple stab wounds and slashes on his face, arms and abdomen. He was airlifted to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge where he underwent emergency surgery, Somerville said. He had an eight-inch slice down his face, serious defense wounds on his arms and abdomen and his stomach lining was punctured. The man was placed in the intensive care unit after surgery.

Lucas Neuhaus

Police talked to witnesses who said the suspect was hiding in his basement. Police went to Neuhaus' home and arrested him. They obtained a search warrant and recovered some evidence, but Somerville declined to say what it is.

Witnesses said the man had left a restaurant to go to his car and look for his wallet. The man asked

Good food good times to raise funds for two good causes

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

If you get hungry on Sunday because the aroma of a chicken BBQ is wafting in your direction, you can find the source at Williams Park where the Lion's Club is raising money with their annual BBQ. To make things easier for everyone, the food will all be to go and there is even a drive-thru where you can pick up your food, find parking and eat in the park.

In addition to the chicken, hot dogs and bratwurst will be available. The Lion's Club will also have some of the best corn in Lake County for sale. To ensure it is the sweetest and best, club members will go at 5 a.m. Sunday to a farm that has been irrigated and pick up about 2,000 ears of corn. That's enough to fill up a pick-up truck.

"The sooner you eat corn after its been picked, the sweeter it is," said Chuck Cermak, past president of the Lion's Club. Corn that fresh would be hard to beat.

Lifelong BBQ attendee Laurie Stahl doesn't know the secret ingredient for the club's chicken recipe, but it has kept her coming back every year.

"It's the best chicken in town," Stahl said. As a member of the Junior Woman's Club, Stahl and fellow club members will help the Lion's Club serve the food. Serving will begin at 11 a.m. and continue to 5 p.m. The Junior Woman's Club will also run the "Treasure Booth," selling items that were not bid upon.

For those who have a sweet tooth, the Woman's Club will be selling desserts.

Along with the BBQ, the Antioch Rescue

Squad will feature nearly 400 items for their annual auction. Individuals and members of the Antioch business community have donated items, creating a list of varied offerings.

Some of the items available for bid include a prize-winning steer, a couple of fully dressed pigs, a 1998 white Chevy Malibu, boating and fishing items, antique dressers and tables, a lawn tractor, gift certificates to local restaurants and a wide variety of other items.

There will also be activities for the children, and entry to the Aquatic Center will be free for the day. The Lion's Club donated the pool to the village, and the Parks Department honors their donation in this way every year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Values True Value

Recently I removed wallpaper from a hallway in my home. As I was purchasing paint at True Value Hardware in Antioch, I was expressing my concerns about "just painting" to the paint department person. Kathy LaFave, an employee, suggested rag painting the hall and then covering it with a glaze. She talked me into and through the whole project. My hallway looks great, thanks to Kathy.

Shortly thereafter, I had a carpenter replacing a bathroom vanity and he needed a "sink part thing." I dashed out while he was working to find a replacement part. As I headed to the plumbing section of True Value I passed a young employee carrying a Burger King bag (obviously his lunch). He quickly put his bag down to help me. (This is a true story). He was polite, helpful and I was quickly on my way.

I have had several reasons to shop at True Value lately and have had a good experience each time. They have everything I need from keys to closet parts to paint to rental items. The employees are cheerful, courteous, and knowledgeable. They act like they want to help you, not like they have to because it is their job. Thanks True Value, I'm glad you are in Antioch, I think you are terrific.

A good auctioneer can bring better prices

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Plans for the annual auction to raise funds for the Lion's Club and the Rescue Squad are set to go, and a couple of Antioch's own auctioneers are ready to get things in motion.

Herman Behm, 87, has retired from the auctioneering business, but after thirty some years of being in the business, he hasn't lost the knack.

"Over the years, I used to be all over the nation and Canada specializing in construction equipment," Behm said. "I've had a lot of experience."

Behm suggests that people come to this auction with an atypical attitude.

"We don't want people to come to see how cheap they get something. We want them to see how much they can give for it. Both of these are good causes, and they can get a tax write-off for it," he said.

Auctioneers need some knowledge and talent to be good at their job. They have to know the lingo and the value of the merchandise.

As far as the lingo goes, Behm gave a translation of what an auctioneer says at the beginning of the bidding, and continue on. The translation is helpful because auctioneers speak rapidly. It is his job to get the best prices possible for the merchandise, and to get the crowd enthused.

"People know me from all over the U.S. I think that I've sold more than most auctioneers," he said.

The bidding begins with the auctioneer saying, "I'm bid one. Will anybody give two?" There's no risk, because the auctioneer can, with that bit of information, have no fear about walking into the bidding areas. The auctioneer can tell the difference between someone who's making a bid and someone who is just stretching or scratching his head.

In order to prepare for auctioneering, "you do a lot of appraisal work and you've got to be on the dollar. You have to be honest and tell them what you think," he said.

"The job is also part showmanship. You have to be able to build the momentum that will keep the bidding going fast and furiously," Behm said.

Bob Meisinger will also be doing his share of auctioneering.

Satisfy your curiosity and see a form of selling that is still going strong. In fact, Behm said there are more auctions now than ever.

There are also some very intriguing items up for bidding. Come early and browse. The actual bidding will begin at 1 p.m.

Village board takes action on motions except for annexation

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Mayor Dorothy Larson was absent from the village board meeting Monday evening and Trustee Mary Turner, head of the planning, zoning and building committee requested that the village board table the decision regarding annexation of property for a proposed restaurant and banquet center. This is in regard to business zoning requested by TGS Enterprises.

In another motion the trustees approved a request to acquire two new squad cars, and the board unanimously to do so. The new cars will be cycled into squad car use and two older cars with high mileage will be retired.

Trustees asked Village Administrator Michael Haley to make certain Antioch car dealers were invited to bid, which Haley assured them he was going to do.

The trustees also approved the creation of a chief accountant position for the village, which will pay between $50,000 to $55,000. Haley explained that two part-time positions were being combined to make the new position.

"We will try to promote from within," Haley said. "This is an evolution of the finance department. It's time to start firming up these positions, and this is one of them."

Armed robber visits Midwest Bank

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

On Monday around lunchtime, a man walked up to a teller at Midwest Bank at 2975 Sand Lake Road in Lindenhurst and demanded money. He displayed a large silver handgun that is presumed to be a semi-automatic pistol. The teller gave him an undisclosed amount of money and he left the bank.

The man was in his 20s, about six feet tall and weighed about 180 pounds. He was wearing a gray hooded sweatshirt, a white bandana or handkerchief over his face, sunglasses, dark pants, white athletic shoes and black gloves.

There were eight other bank employees, but no customers in the immediate area, and no one was hurt.

The man walked into a wooded area behind the bank that stretches to the Falling Waters subdivision. A Lake County Sheriff's Office canine unit was brought in, but the man was not found.

The FBI became involved in the investigation and is cooperating with local agencies. Tuesday the Lindenhurst Police Department organized a search team and combed

the wooded area looking for evidence

Commander George Moravec led the team in a quadrant search, walking shoulder to shoulder looking for evidence. The Lindenhurst Explorer Post assisted the officers.

After hours of searching fields on a very hot day, the department's diligence paid off.

"We have located a significant piece of evidence during the search," Commander Moravec said.

"The FBI will be processing that evidence."

DUI's create an uneasy rider

Drinking and driving takes its toll as biker crashes on Grass Lake Road

By Brenda Balin

Special to Lakeland Newspapers

It started out as a routine ride-along. I was looking for some interesting dialogue to go with a story about some local cops honored for their DUI arrest records. Instead, the whole point of the exercise made itself known, graphically.

By the time the evening had turned to daybreak, someone was hurt, and facing charges. A night was lost, but it could have been worse.

It was about 11:15 p.m.,

Saturday night. Prime time for catching DUI offenders. Lindenhurst Police Officer Rob Holbach turned the squad car onto Grass Lake Road, westbound from Route 45.

We were confident. Holbach is one of four Lindenhurst officers honored by the Alliance Against Intoxicated Motorists (AAIM) for his 16 DUI arrests in 2004.

An SUV approached, going about 10 miles under the 45-mph speed limit.

"That might be one," Holbach said, explaining that one of the indicators for a possible DUI is a driving speed at least 10 miles over or under the posted limit.

He hung a u-turn, and we caught up with the SUV at Route 45. The driver hopped out and told Holbach that he'd just seen a motorcycle go down on Grass Lake Road.

Another u-turn, this time with colored lights flashing.

We found a line of stopped cars, about 950 feet west of Heritage Drive, and in front of them, on its side, a 1980 Honda motorcycle.

Another 10 feet west, a man lay in the road. His arm was stretched against the pavement.

The biker, later identified as Richard C. Faifer, 44, of Spring Grove, wore no helmet. He had a head injury, but was still conscious. He was shouting and fighting to get up while two friends (who had been riding a motorcycle in front of him) held him to the ground, trying to keep him still until the EMTs arrived, speaking urgently over his shouts.

"Don't move," they said. "We love you, please don't move."

A single, wide rivulet of blood streaked the road, a line drawn to the place where his head made contact with asphalt, echoing the wider, darker stripe of oil stretching from the bike.

Police questioned Faifer's friends, who said they had just come from Grizzly's in Antioch, where Faifer had four Margaritas.

They said he had driven off the road, onto the gravel shoulder. The road was scored with a white streak where the Honda's tailpipe had dragged on the asphalt, as he re-entered the roadway.

Then, somehow, he lost control, and the bike went down. His friends, riding ahead of him, saw the crash and returned to help him.

Later, Faifer blamed the crash on the unfinished shoulder, although he had barely missed colliding with a bright orange construction sawhorse, surmounted by a blinking amber light.

According to police, all three people had alcohol on their breath. Faifer's friends refused to take field sobriety tests.

Limited by personnel constraints, police did not press the matter, but offered the riders the option of having their bike towed in lieu of arrest. They accepted the offer.

At Condell, Faifer's wife, Janine, sat with their son, waiting for the results of a CT scan.

"This was the one night I didn't go riding with him," Faifer's wife said. She had stayed home to be with a visiting friend.

Now, in the hospital waiting room, she seemed calm, apparently unsurprised or upset when told her husband would probably be arrested, even as he lay in the ER.

Per police procedure, Holbach requested the hospital to use a "DUI kit"—a blood test kit specifically designed to be used as evidence.

Hospital personnel did not appear to rush to make this test happen. We waited for nearly three hours, making it about four hours since the accident when a lab technician finally arrived to draw blood.

They had taken their own tests when Faifer arrived.

There were clear indications that Faifer's blood alcohol concentration (BAC) exceeded the .08 standard, and that cannabis may also have been a factor.

With each passing hour, as hospital personnel forgot to order the DUI kit, Holbach became concerned about the effect the delay would have on results.

Every hour, if no other alcohol is imbibed, a normal metabolism burns off about .015 BAC. However, even with a low BAC, police can press charges based on other visual and physical evidence of intoxication.

While we waited, Holbach talked about the job. He told me that, on the midnight shift, about 50 percent of all calls, whether traffic stops, assaults or domestic disputes, are alcohol-related.

"When you make a DUI arrest, people say things like 'You are ruining my life,'" he said. "But they're doing it to themselves."

Holbach agreed that the objective in DUI arrests is to prevent the kind of incident we were attending.

Finally, at nearly 4 a.m., we left the hospital. Holbach had his DUI kit. The Lake County Sheriff's Office traffic investigator had been to the scene and taken photographs. The scene was cleared, and traffic dissipated. Life went on.

Faifer was issued two citations: one for DUI and one for driving an uninsured motor vehicle.

He was released on a $3,000 1-bond, pending appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Aug. 23, at 9 a.m.

According to hospital staff, he had "no life-threatening injuries."

"We were lucky," Janine Faifer said.

Local bank asks community for charitable support

If employees at First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE) seem to be dressed a little casual for bankers, there's a good reason. The bank will have two casual days for employees as a way to raise funds for charity. In exchange for a small donation, the employee may dress casually.

The bank is supporting two causes this month. On Aug. 12 the bank will be collecting cash and school supplies to be donated to the Sharing Center Inc. of Kenosha County. Spiral notebooks, pens, crayons, erasers, boxed facial tissue, black markers, pink and yellow highlighter markers, transparent tape, dictionaries, construction paper, pencil boxes and pouches will be collected for the center which provides supplies to area school children in need.

The second day, Aug. 26, the bank will be taking donations for the Lupus Foundation. Lupus is a chronic, potentially life threatening autoimmune disease that can cause damage to virtually any organ in the body. Of the 2 million Americans diagnosed with Lupus, 90 percent are women.

Customers and community members are welcome to donate to these causes at one of FNBE's facilities located at 485 Lake Street in Antioch or 36044 N. Brookside Drive in Gurnee. The bank began the We Care program in 1995 and has benefited more than 100 individuals and organizations.

For more information on FNBE's Casual Because We Care Program, or Casual Because We Care donation recipients, contact Karen Kubin at 847-395-3111.

Congratulations go out to Carly Chamerlik, 12, and Paige Chamerlik, 9, both from Antioch, along with their Netherland Dwarf Rabbit, Pixie.

Carly and Pixie earned Grand Champion for the dwarf rabbit category in the 4H competition at the Lake County Fair. The girls are part of the Gurnee Troopers 4H Club.

Antioch offers many community events during the summer, and if you haven't participated, the opportunities are getting numbered as the summer passes. This Sunday take an hour or two and visit the BBQ or the Rescue Squad's auction. Donations are always welcome, but at least go for the sense of community.

Another opportunity is the Friday Fest music at the Brook Memorial Center on Skidmore. Friday the Lakes Area Swing Band will feature songs from the '30s and '40s. Mark and Ann Greco will be available to teach the audience how to "Swing."

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Ginny Skweres at 847-223-8161, ext. 154 or e-mail, ginnys@lakelandmedia.com

Local wins Pickard scholarship

Aubri Kinahan of Lake Villa has received the Pickard Scholarship to attend Ripon College this fall. Kinahan, a graduate of Grant Community High School is the daughter of Bill and Kathi Kinahan.

Ripon College's Pickard Scholarship is the most prestigious scholarship awarded by the college. It has been sponsored for decades by substantial gifts from the Pickard family and was started by S.N. Pickard, a Ripon College Trustee from 1932 to 1973. Two additional generations have continued the Pickard Scholars Program.

The award was established to enhance the finest possible education opportunity for deserving men and women. The intent was also to identify, motivate and develop young people to become leaders in bringing about a richer life and a more just society for themselves and others.

The Pickard Scholarship requires interviews with faculty at the Ripon College campus, an impromptu essay and a thorough review of the student's academic credentials, community service activities and references.

UW Parkside announces grads

The University of Wisconsin-Parkside proudly announces the Lindenhurst students shown below have successfully completed their studies and received diplomas from the university following the spring 2005 semester. Each student is verified to have earned the proper number and types of credits required to graduate.

The graduates, their degrees, majors, and honors are: Hannah Anderson, Bachelor of Arts in Sociology; Steven Behrendt, Bachelor of Arts in Political Science; and Kyle Tikovitsch, Bachelor of Arts in Theatre Arts, Magna Cum Laude.

UW-Parkside congratulates these graduates and will work with them to fulfill their career goals.

Training Grant Awarded

Amy Ann Bendall of Lake Villa has been named one of 15 students to receive a $7500 training grant from the Illinois State Library.

To encourage students to make the library profession a career, and to promote quality library service in Illinois, the Secretary of State annually awards up to 15 training grants of $7,500 each to students who are enrolling in Masters degree programs in an accredited graduate library school. Recipients must be Illinois residents and must work for two years following graduation in an Illinois library.

The Training Grant program ensures that libraries in this state will continue to be staffed with persons who are the most well-educated and highly qualified in their field.

Lake Villa girl wins place at Illinois State Fair

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

The Lake County Fair is a lot more than a bunch of carnival rides and games. It offers a way for members of 4H clubs to highlight some of the activities they take part in all year. These are some of the traditional competitions that were valued in a more rural way of life.

Livestock is judged and later sold, culinary cooking challenges take place, dairy goat milking becomes a final and the judging of 4H Club projects.

However, there is room in the 4H clubs for skills that can be honed to the advantage of today's young people.

Natalie Schurdak of Lake Villa took first place in the category of "Formal Speech." A formal speech must last between four and six minutes, and the speaker may not use illustrations or props. Natalie is home-schooled and a member of the Chain 'O Lakes 4H Club.

Natalie will take part in the Illinois State Fair competition that takes place in Springfield from Aug. 13 to 19. Her topic is "Abortion and its risks."

Vicki Brown, director of Youth Development Education for 4H, said Natalie was the first contestant who spoke on a controversial topic. She had to work carefully to make certain the speech was informational, but not persuasive in either direction.

"This was a first," Brown said. "Natalie set the pace for a controversial topic, but she followed all the guidelines."

Before contestants committed themselves

Natalie Schurdak is holding the award she won in photography for photos she grouped as "The Beauty of God's Creation." This was in addition to her first-place award in formal speech that will send her to competition at the Illinois State Fair.

to the contest, three workshops were presented ahead of time, Brown said. This gave the teens a better idea about the competition.

Runners-up include Laura Lisy of Zion, Johnny Von Helms of Ingleside and Brian Neal of Gurnee.

Gavin Central settlement heads to final stage

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

Gavin School District Board of Education members voted to pursue "final negotiations on a settlement" with Boller Construction and Legat Architects regarding the closed Gavin Central School.

Gavin School Board President Barb Mende read a statement to that regard following a two-hour closed session on the matter. Gavin Central has been closed since March, 2004 when it was discovered that there were faulty trusses and other construction problems there. The school was built in 1996. Mende said that the lawsuit against the construction and architects and others still stands.

A representative of Boller Construction, whose backers also huddled at the board of education meeting, declined comment.

Interim Superintendent Dr. Darrell Dick emphasized it is important to move forward on the Central matter.

"The school community has spoken on the matter in the last election and voted for people to represent them and decided to repair the building," Dick said.

The public had plenty to say as the school year draws closer. Students in grades one to five will attend Lake Zurich North Middle School's old building on Midlothian Road.

"I would like to know who will pay the increased cost of the premiums for insurance," said Robyn Schenning. "Who will examine Gavin Central before it is deemed safe?"

Dick said that job of inspection and certificate for occupancy is up to the Lake County Regional Superintendent of Education. Regional Superintendent Roycealee Wood was at the Gavin meeting.

Resident Bill Richards questioned the busing schedule to Lake Zurich. Plans are for a 9 a.m. start.

"Would there be aides placed on the buses," Richard asked.

"The board is working to provide a safe, reliable building. We should look to the future," Dick said.

"Is there a confidentiality agreement with Boller and Legat," asked resident Sherry Florian. "I would like to see a presentation from Boller and Legat before the repairs start."

Gabriel Lojdl asked about taking photos before and after Boller and Legat's work is done.

"Any contract you make with an individual or company should provide the school with a before and after photographic record of all the individual repairs made to our investment, the Central School Building, at no cost to District 37," Lojdl said.

Mende said that a list of exactly what would be done at Gavin Central is in the "preliminary stages."

The school board called two special meetings this week.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs

Kevin L. Eckberg, of Belleville, Ill., was ticketed by Antioch Police for speeding, 71 in a 55 mph-zone, was stopped at Route 173 near Savage Road at 1:19 a.m. on July 23. His BAC was .111 so he was ticketed for DUI over .08. Police found a vial filled with something called "pig sweat" according to Eckberg. It was something he inhaled for a euphoric high, but he said it was not Gamma Hydroxybutyrate (GHB). More charges could be filed after the substance is analyzed.

He was released on a personal recognizance bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 16.

Cerferino Garcia Dominguez, 24, of 26829 115th St., Trevor, Wis., was seen driving his car as it listed as he drove it westbound from Tiffany Road to eastbound Route 173. He forced a vehicle ahead of a squad car off the road.

He was ticketed for driving 53 mph in a 40 mph-zone, failing to have a driver's license or insurance, DUI at .208, driving in the wrong lane, improper lane usage, and failure to wear a seat belt. He was released on a personal recognizance bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 16.

Martin R. Villalobos, Jr., 21, of 1100 57th St., Kenosha was ticketed for failing to dim his lights, improper lane usage, DUI with BAC of .137, and driving while his license was suspended. He was released on personal recognizance and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 18.

Leonard J. Vaznonis, 29, of 7801 Woodridge Drive, Woodridge, was charged with improper lane usage, DUI, DUI with a BAC above .08 and no proof of insurance. He was released on $300 bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 16.

Your B.A. and CLC

Many students who already have a bachelor's degree enroll at the College of Lake County to acquire additional marketable skills.

Lynn Rye is such a person.

She had a bachelor's degree in communications and psychology and had worked as an administrative assistant and executive assistant for several years. But Lynn loved to write and wanted a career change. After reading a newspaper article about CLC's Professional Technical Communication program and the job opportunities for graduates, Lynn knew that the college's program was for her.

Lynn completed CLC's certificate in Technical Communications with a perfect 4.0 grade point average. After landing her job as a technical writer, she went on to earn a master's degree online in English with a specialty in technical writing from Utah State University.

Call us today at (847) C-O-L-L-E-G-E to find out more about how CLC can help you enhance your career skills.

In addition to Technical Communications, we offer many other career-enhancing programs in such fields as

- Computer Information Systems
- Business Management
- Paralegal Studies
- Multimedia
- Accounting (CPA preparation)
- Technologies (CNC Programming, Electronics, Cisco Networking and more!)

Classes start August 22.

Club offers social support

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Staying at home to raise children may sound easy, but it can actually be a tiresome task. Now moms have a way to escape. They can join the Lake Villa/Lindenhurst Mom's Club.

The Mom's Club offers support and socialization opportunities for mothers who stay at home to raise their children. Part-time and work-at-home mothers are welcome to join and can bring their children to any group functions.

The organization schedules many activities. Play groups, daytime outings, babysitting co-ops and other specialized activities happen throughout the year.

Members have even organized groups within the group. There are cooking, scrapbooking and workout clubs among others.

"It's activities that focus on kids," said Jean Vargas, president of the Lake Villa/Lindenhurst Mom's Club. "We give resources for interactions."

This month the group is collecting school supplies that will be donated to Children's Hope United and distributed around the area.

"We do (fund-raising) that is fun but also raises money as well," she said.

The Mom's Club is nothing new. A stay-at-home mom started the group in 1983 from California. Today there are more than 1,500 Mom's Clubs and 75,000 members in the United States, according to the group's Web site, www.mom-sclub.org.

The group has even spread internationally. There are currently groups in Canada, Italy and Portugal.

All chapters are guided by the same principles. Women who join must be free to choose their personal path to fulfillment and realize that there is no one right way to raise children, but that members have a common concern in raising children in a healthful way.

The number one purpose of the group is to provide support.

"(The group) gives mothers a chance to meet other mothers with children their own children's ages," said Christina Freindt, coordinator of the Lake Villa/Lindenhurst group. "A lot of people in the club are new to the area."

It's not hard to join, one merely has to go to the Web site or contact the person in their local chapter, Freindt said.

The next Mom's Club of Lake Villa/Lindenhurst meeting is scheduled for Aug. 8 at 9:30 a.m. at the Betty Russell Park in Gurnee. For further information call 847-546-1545.

Seniors group wows 'em for second at talent show

By Steve Peterson
Staff Reporter

Fresh off an appearance at an end-of-the-school year fine arts festival, the Assemble Dance Troop for senior citizens went right to work.

Their goal was to do well at the Lake County Fair's Annual Adult Talent Show in Grayslake. On a sweltering hot stage Sunday, the group did just do that, taking home runner-up honors. The group had to qualify for the Lake County Fair and was one of five groups to win places.

Members were decked out in straw hats and red scarves. The group will be together two years this fall. The group works out at the Fox Lake studio, more intensely when competition nears.

Julie Steffens of Wildwood said she likes being part of the group.

"We're just glad to do it. I love it," said Judy Lehora, a retired teacher. Lehora thanked the dedicated group of teachers for getting the group this far along. They gave their instructor Jennifer Della-Peruta a $150 check.

"It's a wonderful group of ladies," said Barb Kossel of Lindenhurst.

Roz Smith said, "It's like family."

Lucy Malloy and Donna McGee are also in the group.

The Assemble's youth group that won the Fair competition last year to advance to the Illinois State Fair performed Saturday night. Many said that they are still the best, the senior group said.

Bob Vasillumstad of Lake Villa took home third place. The 81-year-old sang songs. "My favorite are Frank Sinatra songs," he said. "Although I have to change the wording of 'The Lady is a Tramp,'" he said.

He sang in high school and played back-up guitar for the Jazz Spectrum.

Tamera Anderson won the first place honors and Desiree Russell took home fourth. The group The New Element won fifth.

Meanwhile, Kyle Ogden was busy wrapping up the fair, as the Antioch resident and Chain O' Lakes 4-H club member showed steer and pigs. "The best part is getting ready for the shows," he said.

LIBRARY

Library Training Grant Award

Lake Villa District Library Youth Services Associate Elisa Guffier has been named one of 15 students to receive a $7500 training grant from the Illinois State Library. Guffier, a resident of Antioch, has been employed by the library since August, 2002. She is currently enrolled in the LEEP program at the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign.

Training Grant Awards

Secretary White also announced this week that 15 students from Illinois have been named recipients of 2005/2006 Secretary of State/Illinois State Library Training Grants.

To encourage students to make the library profession a career, and to promote quality library service in Illinois, the Secretary of State annually awards up to 15 training grants of $7,500 each to students who are enrolling in Masters degree programs in an accredited graduate library school. Recipients must be Illinois residents and must work for two years following graduation in an Illinois library. Grant funding is provided to the Illinois State Library from federal Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) funds awarded by the Institute for Museum and Library Services.

The students selected for 2005/2006 Training Grants are:

Christine A. Aden of Moline, who will pursue her Master of Library and Information Sciences degree at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Amy Ann Bendall of Lindenhurst, who will pursue her MLS degree at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Steven J. Carmody of Urbana, who will pursue his MLS degree at Dominican University in River Forest.

Douglas Ricker Dechow of Naperville, who will pursue his MLS degree at the University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign.

John Raymond Fischer of Bloomington, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Stephanie Shartel Gray of Chicago, Dominican University.

Elisa Dorothy Gueffier of Antioch, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Fenesha Nicole Hubbard of Chicago, Dominican University.

Patrick Henry McDonald III of Arlington Heights, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Jennifer A. Norborg of Oak Park, Dominican University.

Catherine Beth Oedewaldt of Tremont, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Tiffany Lynn Torbeck of Vandalia, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Jessica L. Westphal of Chicago, Dominican University.

Bradley Karl Whetzel of Wood River, U of I at Urbana/Champaign.

Good times at the fair

The 77th Annual Lake County Fair thrived at the Lake County Fairgrounds in Grayslake despite a rainy first day.

Between the motocross competitions, the demolition derby, livestock and carnival rides, over 177,000 people enjoyed the fair this year.

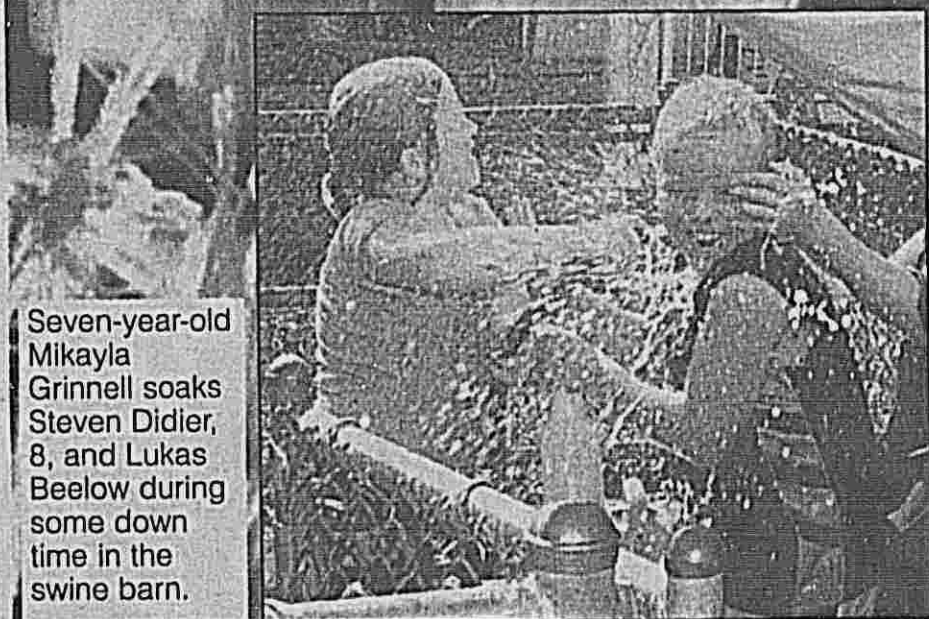

Nikki Petersen, 17, of Libertyville parades one of her beef cows during the livestock auction.

Brett McCollum, 6, of Grayslake chows down on some cotton candy.

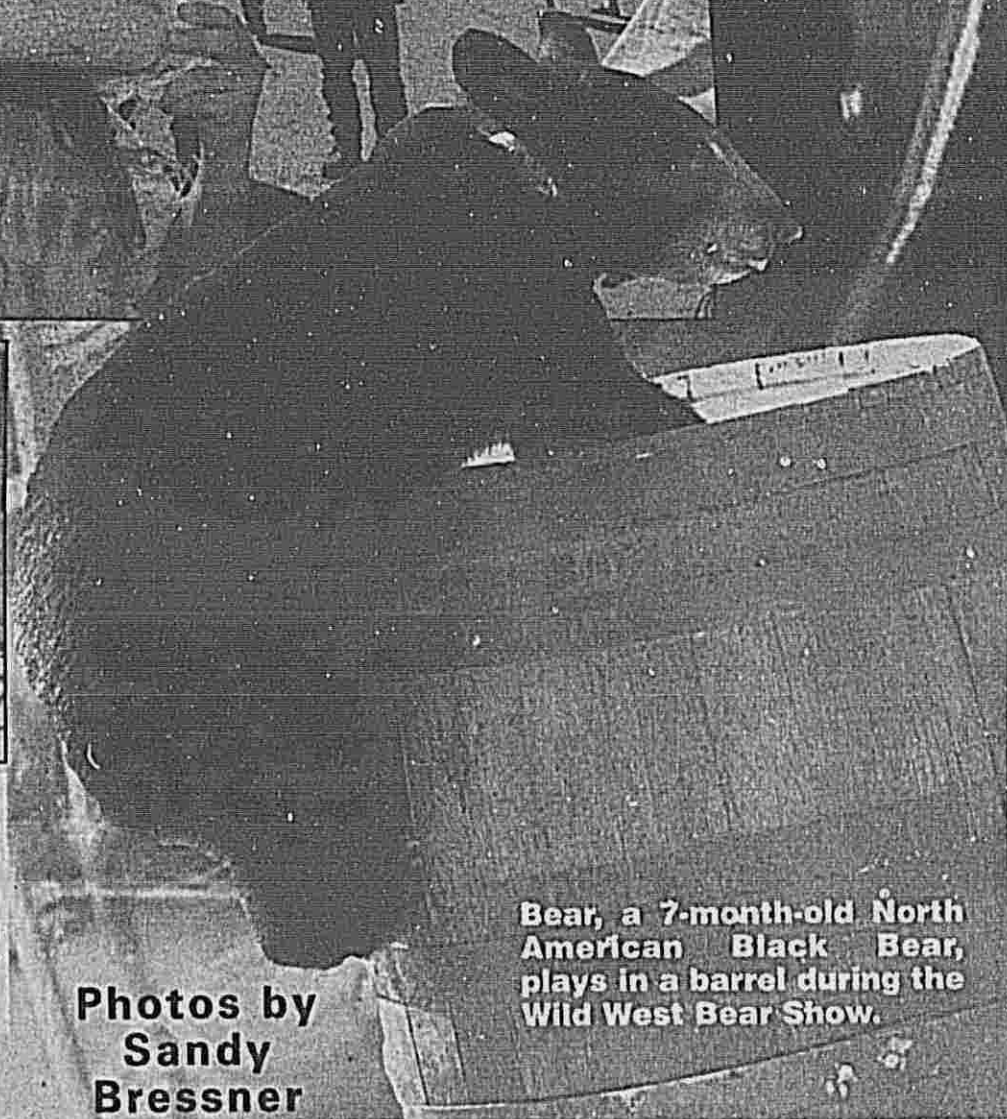

Eleven-year-old Amanda Bohmann of Johnsburg sinks her teeth into some corn.

Seven-year-old Mikayla Grinnell soaks Steven Didier, 8, and Lukas Beelow during some down time in the swine barn.

Lake County Fair's first ever Mr. Best in Show Billy Battistone, 16, of Lake Villa, Little Miss Lake County Fair Kierstin Thompson, Junior Miss Lake County Fair Mary McClure and Miss Lake County Fair 2005 Mary Arzer greet patrons to the fairgrounds.

A weekend of two Tony's at Ravinia

Twenty years after opening for Tony Bennett, one of Chicago's premier male vocalists, Tony Andriacchi, will again be following in the footsteps of Bennett, the living legend. Andriacchi will be making his debut at the Ravinia Festival the same weekend Tony Bennett will also be performing at the festival.

Praised by WGN Radio's Rick Kogan as "incredibly talented" and "amazing" Andriacchi will be performing a special concert program of the American popular songbook, celebrating the 101st anniversary of the Ravinia Festival, on Aug. 21. Andriacchi will perform at 4 p.m., followed by a performance by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at 5 p.m.

Andriacchi has a strong connection to his musical idol Bennett, having opened for him at Summerfest Chicago in the 1980s, when he was just beginning his music career. He has also been compared favorably to the popular singer. Since that time, Andriacchi has made his indelible mark on the Chicago music scene having performed at some of the city's premier nightclubs including The Pump Room, Green Dolphin Street, Byfield's, The Back Room, Davenport's, Orphan's and the Playboy Club.

Happy Birthday Ravinia! will be a day of music and family activities. In addition to performances by Andriacchi and the Chicago Symphony, there will be entertainment throughout the day, including The 5 Browns, brother-and-sister piano sensations. There will also be activities, crafts, carnival rides, games, and much more! There is a special admission price of 25 cents and there are no advance sales. Gates to the park open at noon and a donation of non-perishable foods for local charitable groups would be appreciated. Pavilion tickets for the 5 p.m. performance will be available from the Ravinia box office beginning when the park opens at noon (limit 4 per person on a first come basis). Ravinia is located at 200 Ravinia Park Road, Highland Park.

Visit www.ravinia.org or call 847-266-5100 for further information. For further information on Tony Andriacchi visit www.tonyasings.com.

Acclaimed Vocalist Tony Andriacchi performs at Ravinia's 101 Birthday Celebration Aug. 21

Tony Bennett performs on Aug. 19

"South Side Irish" band Arranmore along with their very special guests Cork, Ireland's Two Time Polka will be performing at the Woodstock Opera House Woodstock on Aug. 30, 8 p.m.

Arranmore and Ireland's Two Time Polka

A night is planned featuring Americana/Celtic/Cajun and American Roots music. This is a first time visit to the Woodstock area by that "South Side Irish" band Arranmore along with their very special guests Cork, Ireland's Two Time Polka.

This is a opportunity to enjoy Arranmore, Two Time Polka in the intimate setting of the Woodstock Opera House. A perfect way to enjoy one of the last remaining nights of summer by taking in the music of these two exceptionally talented acts. Come out and enjoy Chicago's legendary Arranmore along with their very special guests Cork Ireland's Two Time Polka ("Probably, the best Cajun/Roots band to never come from America" as they have been referred to in the music trade magazines).

Get your tickets early. All seats are reserved.

Everything is 'peachy' at Apple Holler

Did you know peaches are the third most popular fruit in the U.S.? Third only to apples and oranges. You will find that locally grown peaches this time year to be sweeter and juicier than imported winter peaches. Peaches do not get any sweeter once picked; they do get softer and juicier, but never sweeter. Look for peaches that are yellow or creamy with a rosy blush on its cheeks. You should be able to smell the peachy fragrance by sniffing the stem end of the peach. Leave peaches at room temperature for a day or two to soften, then store in refrigerator. They will keep for 3 to 5 days. Avoid rock hard peaches with green undertones, this is a result of being picked too early, and peaches will be mealy, dry and not so sweet. So, now is the time to "Eat Peaches"?

It's all "Peaches and Cream" at Apple Holler's Peaches and Cream Festival, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 5, 6 and 7, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. This family event features All You Can Eat fresh Peach pancakes with real whipped cream from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Free activities include live entertainment throughout the day, live beehive and pollination exhibit, farmyard animals to visit, Kid's Corral play area, Cool Cow Maze, an Amish built wooden play train and new this year the "Golden Goat Bridge". In addition, for a charge, there will be hayrides through the 11,000 apple tree orchard and Enchanted Forest, hand-lead pony rides, mini train rides on the Appleland Express miniature train, pedal cart rides, and barnyard mini golf, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

If Peaches and Cream are what you crave, you can build your own Peach Shortcake with real whipped cream. Juicy, fresh picked Peaches will be available for purchase in the Orchard Market, along with Peach jams and preserves. Assorted Peach themed gifts on sale in the Gift Shop and delicious fresh Peach pies, Peach Crumb Cake will be on sale in the Bakery.

Bring your appetite; The Country Picnic Cookout will feature apple wood grilled brats, 19 hamburgers, hot dogs and chicken. Plus, fire roasted Corn on the Cob. Try a fresh Peach sundae, shake or malt in the Ice Cream Parlor. Apple Holler U - Pick Apples are also now available.

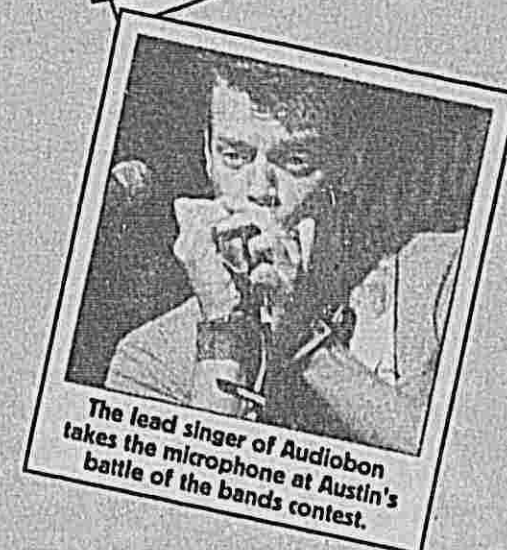

Apple Holler is located in Racine County, on West Frontage Road, off I-94, just south of Milwaukee, between Hwy. 11 (Exit 335) and Hwy. KR (Exit 337). For additional information call 262-886-8500 or visit appleholler.com.

Hall & Oates cancel Genesee Theatre show

The Genesee Theatre, in conjunction with Star Productions announced the cancellation of the rescheduled Aug. 12 performance of Hall & Oates. All current dates in the Hall & Oates tour have been cancelled.

Ticket holders can return to their point of purchase for a refund (processing fees will not be refunded).

You can't keep a good man down, even when he's been afflicted with a serious disease. Just six weeks after being diagnosed with Lyme Disease, a serious tick-borne illness, Daryl Hall is on his feet and ready to get back on the road with partner John Oates. Following several weeks of well-needed rest and having undergone the first six weeks of an intensive four months of antibiotic treatments, Daryl Hall is expected to fully recover.

The chart-topping soul duo Daryl Hall & John Oates were forced to cancel all of their July dates on their summer tour and have rescheduled Toledo Aug. 6, Chicago Aug. 8 and Cl. Aug. 9 in support of their current album Our Kind of Soul. Other re-scheduled dates in Columbus, Ohio Aug. 11, Waukegan, Aug. 12, Apple Valley, Minn. Aug. 13 were forced to be cancelled for a second time due to follow-up testing needed to confirm Hall's recovery.

Daryl Hall and John Oates are slated to be back on the road full time in late August. They will be joined by special guest Todd Rundgren, starting Aug. 23 at Bank of America Pavilion in Boston through Sept. 2 at the Foxwoods Casino in Mashantucket, CT. A full tour listing can be found at www.hallandoates.com.

Hall attributes his road to recovery to early diagnosis, intense antibiotic therapy, and rest. He thanks everyone for their get well wishes and kind words of support.

For more information contact Michelle Wilmoth at the Genesee Theatre at 847-406-3153.

An urgent letter from Iraq

Is the infamous "Tokyo Rose" of WWII alive and well in Iraq? It's as if the U.S. press is being run by an enemy propaganda machine broadcasting morale busting messages to another generation of Americans at war, like the silver tongued Japanese ladies on the air waves during the last world war.

And God forbid one of the press's own buck the trend of horrific headlines by saying something positive about U.S. efforts in Iraq. Editorial writer Mark Yost of the St. Paul Pioneer Press did just that recently and was promptly pilloried for "embarrassing" his fellow journalists.

Well let's just say I'm not a journalist, just an American fortunate to read a letter passed along to me by Charles Mionske of Island Lake.

In this letter, Captain Gary Selof of the 224th Combat Engineering Battalion stationed in Ramadi, Iraq writes

In recent e-mails with some folks back home (Gary is pastor of a church in Gilbert, Iowa and wife Tracy hails from Island Lake) I'm told that support for the war is waning in the U.S.

The question becomes are we winning? I have to admit that sometimes it doesn't feel like it. I am sick of hearing of death; I am sick of soldiers and marines dying on the streets of Iraq because a bomb was hidden in the ground or some insane person decided to run his explosive-laden automobile into one of our convoys. I am tired of looking at news on the Internet and seeing only bad accounts of what's happening over here. Do the soldiers want to go home? You bet we do. However, we also believe we're making a difference here we are helping the people who've never had the freedom we have become free. That is important.

Leslie Glazier-Werner

I was talking to our interpreter the other day—he's an Iraqi citizen—He told me to think about a few months ago when all we heard on the news was the difficulties in Mosul. He reminded me that Mosul is pretty quiet now because of what the coalition forces and more importantly the newly-trained Iraqi forces have done in the area.

Last summer we heard so much about Fallujah, we don't hear about Fallujah anymore.

Now all we hear about is Ramadi I believe the spike in deaths in Ramadi is due to the fact that the insurgents are running scared. They know they're losing ground and are doing all they can to frighten us into giving up and causing the American people to lose hope. They are smart people, they see American television and know what will get reported on the news.

Are we winning this war against the insurgents? I think so. We are the stabilizing force holding this country together right now. We must keep on keeping on until the job is done. I only ask that you keep praying for the military personnel that are over here. Every day I'm thankful for the support and prayers of the American people on behalf of the soldiers, marines, sailors and airmen involved in this conflict.

So let's stop screaming that the sky is falling and start praying.

Yamaguchi's shrimp, macadamia appetizer, bring home taste of Hawaii

Honolulu-based Roy Yamaguchi has made a name for himself as a chef and restaurateur.

His new cookbook, "Roy's Fish & Seafood: Recipes from the Pacific Rim" (Ten Speed Press, 2005) reflects Yamaguchi's unique cooking style. It's one that combines fresh local ingredients, assertive Asian spices, European-influenced sauces and techniques and the traditions of Hawaii and the Pan-Pacific region.

Midwest home cooks will have to content themselves with vicariously enjoying a number of the chef's specialties, since some of the fish (monchong, ono, opah) called for just aren't readily available in this part of the country.

One appetizer, Minced Shrimp and Macadamia Nut Appetizer with Crisp Pineapple, turned out exceedingly well and brought back distant memories of a trip to Hawaii. Depending on your oven, the cooking time to dry out and brown the pineapple rings may take considerably longer than Yamaguchi suggests. Also, we found that a few drops of Tabasco more than sufficed for this dish; error on the side of caution.

Tom Witom
COOKING BY THE BOOK

Minced Shrimp and Macadamia Nut Appetizer with Crisp Pineapple

Crisp pineapple:
2 cups sugar
2 cups water
1 small pineapple, peeled, cored and very finely sliced (about 12 in.)

Shrimp:
2 tsp. olive oil

1 lbs. shrimp, peeled and firmly diced
1 small avocado, halved, pitted, peeled and diced
2 Tbl. minced sweet white onion
1 Tbl. thawed frozen passion fruit concentrate*
1 tsp. finely sliced scallion

(green parts only)
1 tsp. minced fresh cilantro
1 tsp. Tabasco sauce, or to taste
Salt and freshly ground
black pepper
1/4 cup macadamia
nuts, toasted

Preheat the oven to 250 degrees F. to prepare the pineapple, combine the sugar and water in a saucepan and stir to dissolve the sugar. Bring to a boil over high heat, decrease the heat to low and simmer for 5 minutes.

Add the pineapple slices and simmer for about 10 minutes, or until translucent. Carefully remove with a slotted spoon and drain on paper towels.

Transfer the pineapple slices to a baking sheet lined with parchment paper and bake for about 20 minutes, or until dry on top and golden brown on the edge. Turn the slices over and bake 20 minutes longer, or until golden brown and crispy. Remove from the oven and let cool. When cool, cut the slices into triangles and set aside.

To prepare the shrimp, Heat the oil in a heavy nonstick saute pan or skillet over medium-high heat. Add the shrimp and stir-fry for 45 seconds to 1 minute, or until evenly pink.

Transfer to a bowl and add the tomato, avocado, onion, passion fruit concentrate, scallion, cilantro, Tabasco and salt and pepper to taste.

Mix well, spoon onto warmed bowls and sprinkle with the macadamia nuts. serve with the pineapple wedges.

* Passion fruit concentrate may be hard to locate; we substituted the juice from an orange and half a lime.

Serves 4 as an appetizer

Salads can suit every taste

Want quick-as-you-please, easy-to-prepare salad offerings that suit any occasion and every member of the family? Try these "Seven Secrets for Simpler, Healthier, Tastier Salads" to help you create the perfect salad for any dining occasion. To get your creative juices flowing, enjoy a classic favorite, Caesar Salad. And, for a wide variety of recipes, visit mrs.cubbisons.com.

Seven Secrets for Simpler, Healthier, Tastier Salads:

- Be kind to your wooden salad bowl; never soak it in water. Clean quickly with warm water, then rinse in cold and dry immediately with a clean kitchen towel.
- Don't discard outer dark green lettuce leaves – they're the richest in vitamins and minerals. Cut with scissors and blend into your salad mix.
- Get into the tasting habit when preparing your dressing: taste, season and then taste again for best results.
- Add juicy items like ripe tomatoes at the last minute; they can dilute your dressing.
- Keep salad greens properly stored (rinsed under cold running water, then spun dry and wrapped in foil or moisture-proof wrap and refrigerated) until ready to assemble your salad.
- Use restaurant-style croutons, like Mrs. Cubbison's, to add crunch and texture to your salad.
- Pre-packaged salads make a great base when you're in a hurry; simply add additional toppings and restaurant-style croutons.

Caesar Salad (not pictured)

- 1/2 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1/4 cup egg substitute (optional)
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 large cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 8 anchovy fillets, cut in bits or 2 teaspoons anchovy paste
- 1 cup romaine lettuce, washed, chilled
- 1/2 cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- 3/4 cup Restaurant Style Croutons, like Mrs. Cubbison's

Place olive oil, egg substitute (if used), lemon juice, vinegar, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, pepper and anchovy in blender or food processor. Process until well blended or whisk by hand. In large bowl, tear romaine into bite-size pieces. Add cheese and croutons, toss lightly with dressing. If desired, add grilled chicken or shrimp for a heartier salad.

Makes 4 to 6 servings

opening this week

Broken Flowers: It is apparent from the opening scenes that writer-director Jim Jarmusch wrote this script expressly for Bill Murray. The role of the expressionless, "over-the-hill Don Juan" fits Murray like a glove, his passive reaction to his circumstances reminiscent of his lauded portrayal in "Lost in Translation." (R)

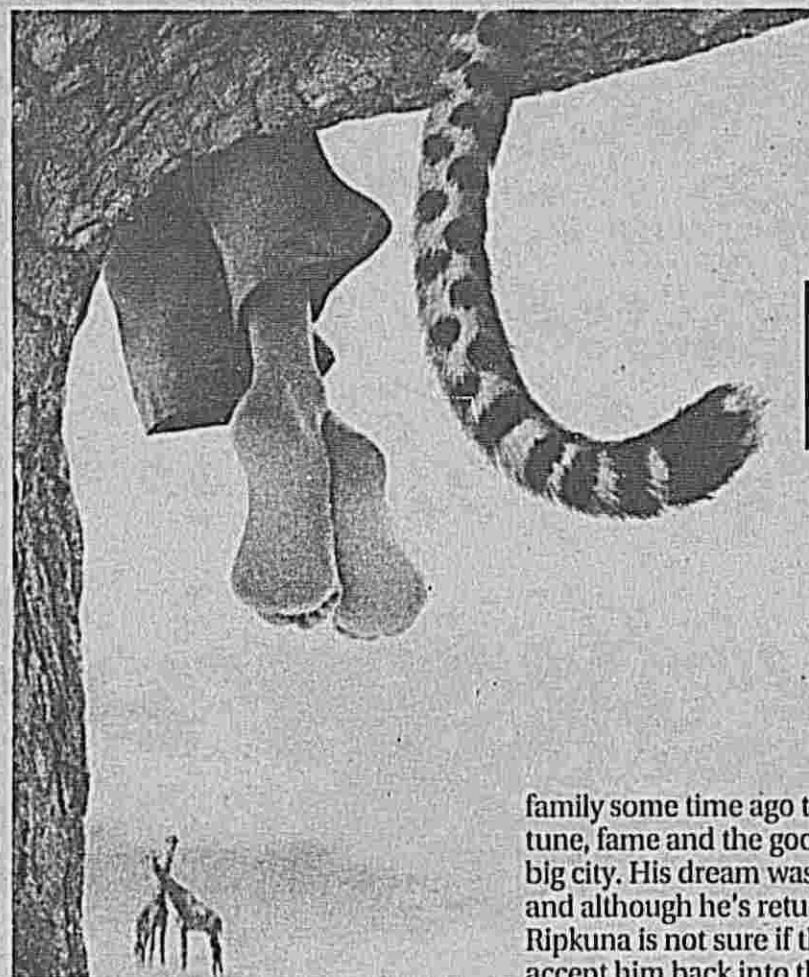

Murray is Don Johnston ("that's Johnston with a 't,'" he dryly corrects snickering newcomers), a wealthy loner whose fortune sprang from computers and whose recent misfortune is the departure of girlfriend Julie Delpy, who needs to "figure things out."

Murray is jolted from his stupor with the arrival of an unsigned, pink-enveloped letter, informing him of the imminent arrival of an unknown 19-year-old son. Actually, Don is never jolted from anything. It is his neighbor, Winston (Jeffrey Wright), an enthusiastic amateur sleuth, who encourages Murray to solve the mystery by visiting four old girlfriends. Seemingly blah about this whole notion, Murray nonetheless embarks on this road trip armed with Winston's advice—"always bring pink roses," "look for a type-writer," and his friend's homemade jazzy CD, which soundtracks this new adventure. Review written by Reel Movie Critic contributor Cathy Edsey Collins.

The Dukes of Hazzard: This remake of the TV namesake is quite a bite different from what you saw on the small screen. It has the same general flavor and with Johnny Knoxville and Jessica Simpson, you know what to expect...sort of. (PG-13)

The Edukators: is a provocative political thriller from Germany about two left-leaning young men who end up loving the same woman. Peter and Jan select the addresses of wealthy people from a yacht club member list, and then they break into the members' houses and rearrange the furniture. They also leave vaguely threatening messages such as, "Your days of plenty are ending" and "You are too rich." Through these acts, they hope to become "educators" to the corrupt classicist society. Of course, after awhile they get in over their heads. We saw this film at the Waterfront Film Festival in Saugatuck, Mich. in June and felt this was the best of the lot among strong competition. (Not Rated)

Xan (Alex Michaelides) is a young boy living on a farm in South Africa with his parents Kristin and Peter (Hope Davis of "About Schmidt" and Campbell Scott of "Roger Dodger"). Dad allows Xan to bring an orphaned cheetah (Duma) into their home as a pet, though they both realize that Duma will have to be released back into the wild one day if he is to survive.

The story revolves around the relationship between Xan and Duma and how they both mature as they face challenges that come with the passage of time. When Xan's father becomes seriously ill and eventually dies, life is no longer a fairy tale.

Authorities decide that it's time for Duma to be held captive. To prevent that and make sure that the cheetah can live on his own Xan runs away to the desert with Duma in a quest for them both to be free. Xan wants to get Duma to a wildlife preserve area where the animals are protected, but his motorcycle runs out of gas and he has no more water. Ripkuna (Eamonn Walker of "Tears of the Sun"), a tribesman traveling back to his small village, comes to the rescue. He left his family some time ago to seek fortune, fame and the good life in the big city. His dream was a nightmare and although he's returning home Ripkuna is not sure if they will accept him back into the family. Without being overly sentimental, Xan and Ripkuna help each other.

Xan watches from a careful distance as Duma stalks his prey and attempts, unsuccessfully at first, to land a kill. Duma must be able to hunt and interact with his species in order to live. Young newcomer Alex Michaelides, who plays Xan, has an easy, natural way with the cheetahs used in the film, as he has a pet cheetah of his own.

In between the human drama, there is a story about wild life in Africa. Much of the film is like being on a safari. The scenery is breathtaking and the animal sightings may at times be scary for very young children, but it is always gorgeous. A cheetah's speed can go from 0-60 mph in two seconds! On the journey in the desert and forests, we are up close and personal with rhinos, water buffalo, snakes, lions, giraffes, crocodiles, elephants and wild boar.

Our favorite children's movies often feature families that are dealing with life's growing pains, and they may be animated (e.g., "Madagascar," "The Incredibles") or not. Here, there is no need for layered messages. In "Duma" director Carroll Ballard, who also did the fine film "Fly Away Home," children and adults look at life with a youthful eye. All of our life, we continue to struggle with the concepts of forgiveness and letting go. Ripkuna is seeking forgiveness from his family and Xan must learn to live with the death of his father. This is a wonderful family film that introduces those concepts to children in a positive and realistic way. Opening today at Crown Village in Skokie, and at Loews Webster Place and AMC River East in Chicago.

For a program calendar or additional information about your Lake County Forest Preserves, call 847-367-6640 and request a free copy of the Horizons quarterly newsletter or visit on-line at www.LCFPD.org.

About the Lake County Forest Preserves

The Lake County Forest Preserves manages 24,955 acres of land and offers innovative educational, recreational and cultural opportunities for all ages. Facilities of special interest include Independence Grove near Libertyville, Ryerson Conservation Area near Deerfield, Lake County Discovery Museum near Wauconda, Greenbelt Cultural Center near Waukegan, and Thunderhawk Golf Club near Beach Park.

Spend summer mornings working in the outdoors

Spend summer mornings outdoors in your neighborhood preserve or venture out to other preserves throughout the county by becoming a Conservation Volunteer. Opportunities are available nearly every weekend year-round, and are an opportunity to give back to the environment and enjoy camaraderie with other dedicated volunteers.

Volunteers assist with the removal of exotic plants that choke out native species. No prior experience is necessary and all ages are invited. Volunteers should dress for the weather, wear long pants and sturdy shoes or boots, and bring work gloves. Groups of four or more should call ahead to 847-968-3329 so that Forest Preserve staff can make certain there will be enough equipment for everyone.

For a program calendar or additional information about your Lake County Forest Preserves, call 847-367-6640 and request a free copy of the Horizons quarterly newsletter or visit on-line at www.LCFPD.org.

Register online for Forest Preserve shelters, dog areas and Programs

The Lake County Forest Preserves' website, www.LCFPD.org, now offers online registration for Forest Preserve picnic shelters, dog exercise areas and educational programs.

"Allowing people to reserve a shelter or buy a dog exercise area permit online anytime of the day or week will be a great convenience," said Bonnie Thomson Carter, President. "We expect that it also will increase attendance for our award-winning Forest Preserve hikes and programs about nature and history."

The new online reservation and registration system is the latest addition to the Lake County Forest Preserves' comprehensive website at www.LCFPD.org. The website hosted nearly 60,000 visitors during June and another 70,000 visitors during July. Reservations and permits will continue to also be available in-person and by telephone, fax and mail.

For picnic shelter reservations, dog exercise area registration and other permit sales, please visit online at www.LCFPD.org or call the General Offices of the Lake County Forest Preserves at 847-367-6640.

Program calendars and registration information are available online or by calling the Program Registration Office at 847-968-3321.

Foreigner live in concert

Rock Lightning USA and STS Concert Sound will present Foreigner live in concert on Aug. 27, at Galt Airport, on Greenwood Road just north of Woodstock. Gates open at 5 p.m. Show starts at 7 p.m. Guest appearance will be by Bad Company former lead singer Brian Howe.

Formed in 1976, Foreigner is no stranger to meteoric global success. Signed to Atlantic Records, Foreigner's debut self-titled 1977 album was a spectacular success worldwide, yielding the quintessential hard rock hits, "Feels Like The First Time," and "Cold As Ice" and assuring their passport to superstardom. Since then, Foreigner's midas touch has never failed them.

Throughout the 70s and 80s, Foreigner were universally hailed as one of the most popular rock acts in the world, racking up scores of smash hits, multi-platinum albums, and sold out concert tours. From "Cold As Ice" to "Hot Blooded," "Urgent" to "Jukebox Hero," "Waiting For A Girl Like You" to the chart topper "I Want To Know What Love Is," Foreigner's thrilling mix of blustery blues and impeccably crafted pop continues to captivate generation after generation of music fans.

Foreigner will be performing live along with Guest appearance by Bad Company former lead singer Brian Howe on Aug. 27.

"I had no idea at the beginning what Foreigner would become," Mick Jones said. "It's amazing. Back when I started the band, I was at a crossroads in my life, whether I was going to carry on in music or get a real job. So thirty years later, we've done pretty well for ourselves. What's been great is that I've realized that the music has touched a lot of people worldwide. Unwittingly we've weaved into the fabric of people's lives. That our music has brought a lot of comfort and happiness is one of the best rewards. It's remarkable when you set out to write the songs you have no idea where they'll lead to."

Now in 2005, it feels like the first time again.

Giddy-up on to Midway Village & Museum Center on Aug. 13 and 14 from noon to 5 p.m.

How the west was really won

Midway Village and Museum Center hosts Wild West Days on Aug. 13 and 14 from noon to 5pm. Admission is $6 for adults and $3 for children 3 to 17. Members are always free. Admission also includes visiting the Museum Center, the Museum Store, the Old Dolls' House Museum, and Millhouse on Lake Severin.

Hear the tall tales of the Wild West and experience the excitement as over 100 costumed re-enactors transform Midway Village into a typical Wild West town of the late 1800's. Expect to see conflict erupt between lawmen and outlaws, prospectors and claim jumpers.

Stroll through the village and meet the citizens, watch a shootout on Main Street, witness a bank robbery or two, set a spell in the canteen or take a wagon ride.

Features for the whole family:

- Stagecoach and wagon rides

- Storytellers with plenty of "tall tales"
- Kiddie Cowboy Parade - all children dressed in Wild West attire can march in the parade.
- An old-fashioned melodrama performed in our Hotel
- Affordable sandwiches, snacks & beverages in our Town Hall
- Quick draw competitions
- Old-fashioned games and contests for kids
- A hands-on campsite for tots
- Live music

Midway Village & Museum Center is located at 6799 Guilford Road, in Rockford, one mile north of East State (Business 20) just off I-90. Take Perryville Road north and take a left on Guilford Road.

Rescue Bunny 911

Fifteen-year-old Margaret, an Animal Education and Rescue (AEAR) volunteer, was accompanying me to a foster home, where Missy, a schnauzer-mix, waited to have her infected ears cleaned. Just before passing the YMCA, in Vernon Hills, we both noticed a rabbit lying on the road. We said in unison, "poor bunny!" Then we saw its head move.

By Sandy Wisniewski

PET WISE
aeart@anet.com

"It's alive!" Margaret exclaimed. I put my hazard lights on and stopped the van. "There's a blanket in the back," Margaret barked. "Get the blanket," I barked back (we were all business). She rushed to get the blanket as I head to the middle of the road to stop traffic from hitting the rabbit again. I slowly approached. Until AEAR I would get really panicky about seeing sick or dead animals. My first thought was, wow, I don't have to throw up.

The rabbit was obviously hit by a car. He could move his head but that was it. He had blood by his nose. I thought he's probably a goner. But not wanting him to be in the middle of the road awaiting his impending death by car, I took the blanket that Margaret handed me and gently wrapped up the bunny. Margaret opened up the back of the van and I placed the rabbit gently on the floor.

Missy would have to wait. On the ride back to my place I warned Margaret that this rabbit could die. He was breathing rapidly through his nose, only his head moved slightly. "He could be paralyzed or have internal injuries," I informed her. "Let's just get him in a crate and make him comfortable. It's cars that did this to him. The least we can do is make his last moments comfortable," I said.

Arriving at my place we jumped out of the van and went to look for a crate. Crate in hand we headed back to the van. Margaret got in first and I told her to take an end of the blanket while I took the other and we would slide the rabbit in the crate.

Just then without warning the rabbit sprung up to a sitting position. "He's up!" Margaret exclaimed. "Hurry, let's get him in the crate," I said, my voice rising. He began to slip out of the blanket papoose. "Uh oh, oh, no, grab him, he's getting away!" I yelled. I am imagining this wild rabbit loose in the van. I grabbed a hold of the blanket, rabbit half inside and half out, and shoved him towards the crate. Obliging, the rabbit hopped in. We both rejoiced in his unlikely recovery and sighed with relief he wasn't loose in the van.

One hour later, after resting in the crate, the rabbit was released and hopped away.

Take Us Home Today

April

This tortoise-shell shorthair is very loveable and mellow. At 2-and-a-half-years-old, she was adopted out once and returned because her owners got sick.

Bourbon

A typical beagle, this 5-year-old is said to be good with other dogs and great with kids. He's a real sweetheart who has a lot of energy and would be a good family dog.

L'I Josie

This 8-year-old shepherd mix loves to be around people and is very friendly, affectionate and intelligent. She is not good with most other animals, so she needs to be your only pet.

Ruby Sue

Although she's a little hissy and a bit vocal, this 6-year-old Siamese is said to be a joy to be around. She's a front-declaw and ready for a home after being found as a stray two months ago.

These pets are available for adoption at Save-A-Pet, at 31664 N. Fairfield Road, Grayslake. For information, call 847-740-7788 or go to www.save-a-pet-il.org.

Tips for adopting an animal

Potential pet parents should consider not only what type of animal is most appropriate but also what shelter. To help, here's advice on what to look for.

"The first indication of a good animal shelter is mandatory sterilization of all animals. No responsible shelter will adopt animals out without making provisions for their sterilization," said Edwin Sayres, president and CEO of the ASPCA (American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals). "This includes purebred animals. The revolving door syndrome of adopting out one animal only to get six of its offspring back at a later date is patently self-defeating."

Additionally, a good animal shelter will:

- Work diligently to place as many animals as possible into responsible, loving homes
- Distribute educational materials on proper pet care, animal behavior issues and overpopulation to the general public
- Be well maintained and have a cheerful, bright appearance
- Have convenient hours
- Have a comprehensive health care program that includes treating sick animals and preventive inoculations and medication
- Ensure its animals are clean, dry and comfortable
- Aim to reduce stress for the animals through grooming, exercise, behavioral enrichment, separation of species and tender loving care
- Have a friendly, inviting staff, willing and able to assist the public.

Many people misunderstand some things they see at animal shelters. Common complaints that can be easily misinterpreted are: No water: Many dogs and cats tip over their water bowls regularly. Therefore, some ani-

When adopting a pet, it may be wise to "paws" to consider the kind of shelter it comes from.

imals are watered on a regular basis and not provided with water round the clock.

No food: Animals fed on a free feed basis often overeat and get diarrhea. Shelter animals are generally fed twice a day, so you won't necessarily see food in their cages.

Euthanasia: It's not possible to house all animals in need. Most shelters have guidelines on euthanasia decision-making.

Dirty cages: No matter how often or how well a shelter cleans, there will be some dirty cages at any one time.

Sick animals: However comprehensive the health program, there'll always be sick animals. Most animals arrive unvaccinated and many harbor contagious diseases. A good shelter isolates and treats sick animals as soon as possible.

Adoption refusals: Good shelters try to match the right pet with the right owner and give the new owners realistic expectations about their new companion.

Fashion

Hot weather fashions heat up business-appropriate debate

The sizzling temperatures currently spreading across the nation are testing individual career grit and company dress policy boundaries. Summer dog days naturally create the desire to kick back a bit, but clothing that keeps bodies cool usually isn't appropriate attire for the office.

Hot-weather fashions always show more flesh than their businesslike opposites, and that can be distracting. Think of it this way: can you imagine Donald Trump wearing a sleeveless muscle shirt with cargo shorts and flip flops to seal a deal? Or what if Condoleezza Rice wore a tank top with Capri pants to meet with foreign dignitaries? Highly successful people don't let weather conditions interfere with their business image or what they're trying to accomplish.

People make assumptions and draw conclusions based upon visuals, and negative perceptions affect your opportunities and success potential.

Therefore, slacking off on your business image in the summer months places you at risk of being underestimated all year round.

Is it even possible to look highly professional and stay cool at the same time? Soaring temperatures create challenges, but you can raise your professionalism and lower your body temperature with these beat-the-heat tips:

Select cool fabrics, like tropical weight wool

Surprisingly, tropical weight wool is the coolest and most professional-looking fabric for warm-weather business suits or separates; it breathes, is exceptionally light weight, and is wrinkle resistant.

Other cool fabrics are cotton, silk, linen, and rayon. However, tropical wool pants or skirts will look dressier while keeping you cooler than heavy cotton varieties, like khakis. Avoid polyester, in all garments and linings; it does not breathe so it traps in and escalates body heat.

Keep your neck cool

Human necks are temperature sensitive and affect the entire body. Place a cold water bottle or soda can on the back of your neck and hold for a few minutes and your overall body temperature will instantly drop.

For men, dress shirts a mere one-half size larger in the neck than their normal size creates some breathing room and air flow. For ultimate cooling, choose dress shirts made of 100% cotton.

Women can opt for open collars or scooped neck tops, those that are not low cut. Avoid wearing heavy necklaces or scarves and wear your hair in a tailored up-do style if it is long.

Keep your wrists cool

Wrists embody a pulse area. Cold objects placed on the wrist pulse lower your body temperature. Simply pushing up your sleeves also has a cooling effect.

Men can roll up sleeves on long-sleeve shirts to mid-arm length (below the elbow) and appear more powerful than when wearing a short-sleeve dress shirt. If your company has a business casual policy, wear long-sleeves rolled up or dressy knit shirts that come to the elbow paired with dress trousers made of tropical wool.

Women have the option of wearing three-quarter length sleeves. Avoid a stack of bracelets or heavy jewelry on your wrists.

Keep your feet cool

The most businesslike shoes involve closed-toe closed heel styles. Sprinkle foot powder and/or place perspiration-absorbing pads in your shoes to keep your feet cool and odor free.

For men, dressy slip-on styles are cooler than heavier lace-ups.

For women, sling-back pumps look professional and the back strap creates airflow at the heel.

Why not sandals? CNNfn did a study that revealed that 68% of Americans believe that sandals and open-toe shoes are unprofessional. To brand yourself as a winner in the game of business, avoid those looks.

Wear cool colors

Light colors reflect heat while dark colors absorb them. Light colors can look highly professional, especially when worn in a monochromatic fashion. Power colors are generally dark. For important meetings, wear a dark power suit or tailored jacket mixed with other light colors.

Wear cooling body powder and undergarments

Body powder was first developed in the pre-air-conditioning era; its purpose is to inhibit body moisture and act as a coolant.

Men can also wear cotton undershirts to absorb perspiration.

Women must wear bras to look businesslike; be sure to check the fabric content and have a proper fit. Wear nude toned bras, versus white ones, under light colors so your bra does not show underneath.

Professional dress standards often become blurred during summer months, getting as hazy as the August sky. It's essential that companies keep those lines well defined and cloud free, even during heat waves. If not, dress problems quickly expand into monsters, overly-casual or too-much-skin-showing ones, that leave stormy footprints in the office for an extended time, long after summer is ended.

Today's business arena is highly competitive. Use your business image as a power tool to gain a competitive edge. Even if you're in the middle of a heat wave, dress for your goals, and you'll reap the cool rewards of success.

To pleat or not to pleat: that is the question

Still pondering the right pants for your body type? Designers have made it easier to find the best fit by offering a myriad of options.

Pleats or no pleats? Low-rise or high-waisted? Straight-leg or full-cut? Whatever your shape, chances are there's a style right for you.

Tummy conscious? Fashion insiders advise staying away from pleats and opting for a flat-front, easy-fitting pant.

One way to shift the focus from a middling midriff is Liz Claiborne's form-flattering "Michaela" pant, which has no waistband and sits neatly below the hip.

Want a sleek, hip-slimming style? Consider the Tabitha style with its streamlined straight hip and wide leg.

Looking to create graceful curves? Pleated styles can add dimension to the mid-area and if they're well cut, do so without seeming bulky. Consider the "Kylie" style, which has a straight waistband, pleats and a relaxed fit.

For a wide selection of favorite pant styles, visit www.lizclaiborne.com.

Kylie-straight waistband, pleats, relaxed fit.

Michaela-no waistband, sits below the waist, straight hip.

Tabitha-relaxed waistband, straight leg

HOROSCOPE

ARIES

Mar 21/Apr 20

There's no time like the present to take an inventory of your life, Aries. Not happy with what you see? Make some changes for the better. Libra is on your side when you need help.

CANCER

Jun 22/Jul 22

Lack of energy will result in a surplus of work for you to do. It's best if you muster up some strength to get things done one at a time. Ask a friend to help you out.

LIBRA

Sept 23/Oct 23

Your star continues to shine at work, Libra. Supervisors can't say enough nice things about the job you're doing. Use this praise to your advantage — ask for a raise.

CAPRICORN

Dec 22/Jan 20

After a much-needed break, you're ready to once again begin your hectic lifestyle and pace. You may want to enjoy a few more days of relaxation this week.

TAURUS

Apr 21/May 21

That project you've been knee-deep in is slowly coming to an end. However, the results won't be what you expected. Don't let your surprise show to those around you.

LEO

Jul 23/Aug 23

There's an adventure in store for you, Leo, but there's just no way of knowing when it will crop up. Keep your calendar clear for unexpected events this week.

SCORPIO

Oct 24/Nov 22

You haven't had much rest lately, Scorpio, or time to yourself. Now is the time to indulge in a little R&R. Set out for a mini vacation to recharge and unwind.

AQUARIUS

Jan 21/Feb 18

Although you feel like you've been acting generously, Aquarius, others see you as being a tad on the selfish side. Reassess how you've been pitching in with the workload.

GEMINI

May 22/Jun 21

You'll get back in touch with a loved one who's been estranged. The meeting will be one to remember, so document it on film or video. Ask others to witness the event.

VIRGO

Aug 24/Sept 22

You've struck out in the romance department a number of times, Virgo, but this week you'll meet someone special unexpectedly — and without even trying.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 23/Dec 21

Feeling like the walls are closing in on you, Sagittarius? Don't worry, you're not alone. This rough patch will resolve itself by the end of the week.

PISCES

Feb 19/Mar 20

You finally get to the heart of a medical matter, Pisces, and find relief. Enjoy the good news with a night out on the town.

"Fire up" for stories

On Aug. 14, Illinois Storytelling Inc. presents a one tent - all day storytelling event featuring international guest Patrick Ryan of London and fifteen outstanding Illinois storytellers at Horse Fair Park in Spring Grove.

Fire Chief Rich Tobiasz, of the Spring Grove Fire Department, hosts a fundraising steak fry on Aug. 13 in beautiful Horse Fair Park and shares his tent with Illinois Storytelling Inc. for a Sunday of stories.

From 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Aug. 14, storytellers "fire up" the imagination. This family enriching event takes place in tents attached to the pavilion in Horse Fair Park, on Richardson Road, just north of Route 12 in Spring Grove.

Tellers include three featured in the first festival of 1982: Patrick Ryan, Beth Homer, and Jim May (founder of the Illinois Storytelling Festival). Also sharing their talents are Illinois favorites Mama Edie Armstrong, Jim & Karen Decker, Lucinda Flodin, Linda Gorham, Leanne Johnson, Nan Kammann-Judd, Dan Keding, Marilyn Kinsella, Gail Permenter, Jane Stenson, Greg Weiss, and Megan Wells. Special guests include Rich Tobiasz, Spring Grove Fire Chief, and the Memory Makers, a group of senior storytellers well-known in the McHenry County area for bringing life stories to schools and to the community. Also telling will be Illinois Storytelling Board Members Scott Mor and Val Wallace.

Stories include local fire history, personal tales of humor and pathos, vibrant folktales, dynamic legends and sing-along stories. Tickets will be sold at the door: $10 for adults, $8 for seniors, $25 for families, and $5 for children 6-12.

For more information check out www.LindaGorham.com.

Last Chance Saloon Concert

Series features HIZ

August 14 at 7 p.m.

Shepherd of the Lakes Church and The Last Chance Saloon are pleased to announce that HIZ will perform Aug. 14. The Last Chance Music Series features contemporary Christian music the second Sunday of every month from 7 to 9 p.m.

HIZ is a spirited rock band composed of musicians from four different churches throughout Lake County.

The Last Chance Saloon & Café is located at 129 Center St. in Downtown Grayslake. There is no cover charge or reserved seating. For more information call 847-223-0082 or email sotlpr@yahoo.com.

Tour Independence Grove in a golf cart

The beauty of the trails at Independence Grove Forest Preserve near Libertyville in summer is now within reach for Lake County residents who have trouble taking on the trails by foot. If you have physical difficulties getting around, join a Lake County Forest Preserves naturalist for a trailside tour of Independence Grove in a chauffeured, canopied golf cart as part of the Summer Access Cart Tours program.

Explore the beauty of the nearly seven miles of trails and 115-acre lake at Independence Grove from a comfortable covered golf cart, and learn the story behind the glacial deposits that were mined here and how the scarred land was restored to an award-winning recreational and natural wonder.

Tours will be offered on Aug. 27 and Aug. 28. The tours will start at 2:30 and end at 4 p.m. Cost is $10 ($7 for Lake County residents) per person. If you need help transferring into the golf cart, please be sure to register your assistant for the tour.

Registration and prepayment are required. Independence Grove is located on Buckley Road just east of Milwaukee Avenue in Libertyville.

For more information on Independence Grove and summer programs and events offered at other Forest Preserves throughout Lake County, visit www.LCFPD.org or call 847-968-3321.

Chemically Imbalanced Comedy turns 5 years old

Chemically Imbalanced Comedy turns 5 years old in September and we start our 6 season. For the past 5 years CIC has played host to over 1000 performers giving performance opportunities in our improv and sketch comedy showcase and our original shows and plays produced through out the years. Many improv groups past and present have gotten valuable stage time with CIC to help hone their craft. We have also helped bring prestige to improv groups resumes by offering contests and awards (Snubfest, and King of the Mountain) as well as press coverage in local and national newspapers for many groups and individuals who would not normally get this type of coverage.

The annual benefit helps raise funds so it can continue to give Chicago area artists the opportunity to perform at not cost to them.

The Benefit will be held at Durkin's Tavern 810 W. Diversey Sept. 10 from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. tickets are $25 and includes three hours of draft beer, wine, soda, and food.

VISTA HEALTH

Having a baby?

Expectant moms and dads can learn all about the "big day" at Vista Health's childbirth classes. Classes are available year round and are offered at Victory Memorial Hospital (Waukegan) and the Vista Surgery and Treatment Center (Lindenhurst). A schedule of dates, times and fees for classes is available by calling Vista's New Family Center at 847-360-4297, extension 5218.

A few of the classes include:

Prepared Childbirth – A four week series of classes during which expectant mothers and their support persons are instructed in the labor and delivery experience as well as breathing and relaxation techniques. It is recommended that this class be taken early in the pregnancy, during the first trimester if possible.

Prepared Childbirth Refresher – A two session class designed for parents who have attended classes in the past.

Prepared Childbirth Single Session – Designed for people with busy schedules, this one session class meets from 8:30 a.m. – 5 p.m. on a Saturday.

LAKE COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT AND COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER

Health Department celebrates National Breastfeeding Month in August

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center will offer food and raffle prizes to breastfeeding mothers and pregnant women in honor of National Breastfeeding Month in August.

The theme of this year's National Breastfeeding Month is "Breastfeeding and Family Foods: Loving and Healthy." The Health Department's Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) will host its third annual breastfeeding mothers' tea. This event will include support group activities and games. After a discussion of the importance of breastfeeding and mothers' positive experiences with breastfeeding, staff will coordinate games, conduct a raffle, and hand out prizes. These prizes are given to celebrate the moms' hard efforts and success at breastfeeding. All pregnant and breastfeeding women are invited.

The breastfeeding teas will be held at:

- August 15 – 2446 Great Lakes Drive at the Great Lakes Naval Base, 3 p.m.
- August 17 – Mid-Lakes Health Center, 224 Clarendon Avenue in Round Lake Beach, 11:45 a.m.
- August 24 – Belvidere Medical Building, 2400 Belvidere Road in Waukegan, 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.
- August 25 – North Chicago Health Center, 2215 14th Street in North Chicago, 2 p.m.
- August 30 – Northeast Satellite, 1819 27th Street in Zion, 11 a.m.

Throughout the month, the WIC program will promote the importance of breastfeeding and raise awareness about the risks and costs of introducing other foods and drinks to breastfed babies before six months; how to make feeding easier and healthier; how to incorporate spoon feeding solids after 6 months of age; and the value of breastfeeding for at least one year and beyond.

WIC recently expanded its Peer Counseling program through a $20,000 Loving Support Breastfeeding Peer Counselor grant. This grant allowed WIC to increase its part-time peer counselor to full time. With the expansion of the Peer Counselor program, WIC will offer breastfeeding support outside the clinic environment with breastfeeding support groups. Evening hours and sessions in Spanish will be added.

The WIC Program provides nutrition education, healthcare referrals, breastfeeding support and vouchers for nutritious supplemental foods at no cost to eligible Lake County residents. For more information, please call (847) 377-8420 or visit WIC's website at: <http://www.co.lake.il.us/health/pcs/wic.asp> to find the location nearest you.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Believe it or not, school is right around the corner. I have had a number of parents ask me if there are things they can do to gear their kids up for school. I believe that kids need a 'before school starts' plan to get their brains moving before they go back, so they need less time to catch up while in the school year. I have heard that it takes kids an average of 1 month to get back into the swing of things. Especially for kids who have any kind of distractibility, learning and/or behavior problems, this is a lot of time to lose during the school year. So, here are some suggestions for getting the ball rolling and getting your child on the right track for a great school year.

1. During the rest of the summer and right into the school year, plan on having the child work one hour per day on some sort of pre-arranged processing based or academic activity.

2. Pick the activity or activities. There can be more than one. Make sure it is age appropriate. It can be computer based or book based. Try to focus on the areas that your child needs improvement. Be aware that the computer will be more fun for the child but book work will be closer to what the child will do in school. I would recommend doing a mix of the two so that the child has some prep for both. You can do this with very young children. Even Preschoolers and Kindergarten age children can benefit from the new interactive t.v. based learning toys and workbooks for colors, letters, numbers, etc.

3. If you know your child has problems with attention, behavior or learning, don't wait until you are in the thick of the school year to get help. Do it now so you can be on top of it when school starts. Many times, parents and kids both don't want to face those problems until they absolutely have to. Time is of the essence when it comes to these kinds of problems though. If you act fast, you can prevent problems that can take the whole school year away from the child and worse, create a bad feeling in the child about school and learning.

Some simple things can make this the best school year ever

4. Remember that repetition is the key to learning anything. Don't sit your child down once or twice with something and expect it to become permanent. That is just an unrealistic expectation and too often these days, the basis for thinking a child has a problem. Pick an exercise or assignment and stay with it for a week or more depending on how much it takes for the child to know it.

5. Don't go overboard. An hour a day is great. It is still summer and your children still need time in the sun. Of course, that is if this heat ever lets up! Very soon, kids will be in classrooms 6-8 hours a day and the sun will be up for shorter periods of time (am I depressing you enough?) They still need the fresh air and freedom now. So, be reasonable and have a good mix of fun and work.

Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist. She regularly works in person with many readers of this column, helping them to significantly improve their kid's behavior, attention and processing skills. Dr. Singer's system has promoted very fast behavior and attention change both at home and school. For an appointment, please call 847-231-5644 or 708-962-2549.

TomoTherapy limits radiation exposure of healthy tissues

Gives viable option to patients already at maximum exposure

In just one year since introducing TomoTherapy radiation treatments, Cancer Treatment Centers of America in Zion has become the leading U.S. hospital providing this pioneering therapy for cancer. For the growing number of cancer patients who have reached the tolerance dose of traditional radiation, TomoTherapy offers a new, and for some, their only option for treatment.

As the only hospital in Illinois and one of the first in the nation to offer TomoTherapy, CTCA in Zion has performed 4,260 treatments for 210 patients since May, 2004. With the TomoTherapy system, CTCA radiation oncologists deliver smaller, more targeted beams to tumors, dramatically limiting the radiation exposure to healthy surrounding organs and tissue.

Traditional therapies can project radiation onto the tumor from only a few different directions, with beams passing through the same healthy tissue to reach the tumor. The TomoTherapy system delivers radiation in a 360-degree spiral, increasing the energy to destroy the cancer while diffusing the exposure to healthy tissue, notes Bernard Eden, MD, medical director for radiation oncology for CTCA in the northern Chicago suburb of Zion. "This is a promising new weapon in the war on cancer," he said.

For Joslyn McGhee of Chicago, TomoTherapy at CTCA offered the only promising alternative to chemotherapy-only treatment. After first discovering she had breast cancer in 1993, McGhee was treated for four recurrences over the years in which the cancer eventually spread to her underarms, neck, sternum and chest. "I was told I couldn't safely have more radiation, and the chemotherapy didn't seem to be working anymore," says McGhee.

In researching other options, McGhee's daughter learned about CTCA in Zion and its use of TomoTherapy treatment. After an evaluation by CTCA oncologists, the 62-year-old McGhee decided to pursue their recommended treatment of TomoTherapy and chemotherapy, which she recently completed. "I feel grateful to have found this new treatment," says McGhee.

TomoTherapy also allows CTCA to help patients with tumors in sensitive areas, such as the brain. With a tumor at the base of his tongue, David Rossignol traveled from Maine to CTCA in Zion to receive TomoTherapy treatments because he was concerned that conventional radiation might destroy salivary glands. "With conventional radiation back home, my doctor guaranteed I would lose my salivary glands," says Rossignol. "With TomoTherapy, at least in my case, I did not avoid damage, but just the fact I can produce saliva at all is a big benefit for me."

In another major improvement, the TomoTherapy machine includes an on-board CT scanner. CTCA became the first facility in the world to pair the most advanced, 16-slice PET/CT scanner with the TomoTherapy system, allowing for more precise targeting. "We take a scan of the tumor moments before each session to ensure the tumor hasn't shifted or changed shape or size since the last session," explains Dr. Eden.

To date, CTCA in Zion has used TomoTherapy for patients being treated for the following types of cancer: head/neck, brain, pancreas, breast/chest wall, prostate, lung, pelvis, and thigh.

Founded in 1988, Cancer Treatment Centers of America provides advanced patient empowerment medicine through a network of cancer treatment hospitals and community oncology programs in Illinois. For more information on CTCA, call 1-888-726-4495.

Accuracy of land survey critical when buying property

Land surveys are often overlooked, but an integral part of the property sales process. They depict the legal description of the property to be transferred. They can affirm that the parties understand the locations of the property's boundaries and any improvements that have been made.

By law, the land survey must be conducted by a licensed surveyor. Because title companies rely on surveys to detect certain title exceptions, it is imperative that precautions are taken to ensure their accuracy, says Peter J. Birnbaum, president and CEO of Attorneys' Title Guaranty Fund, Inc. (ATG).

"A real estate attorney can assist the buyer of property with making sure the surveyor accurately depicts the land to be purchased," he affirms.

Among the tasks that an attorney will undertake, the attorney will confirm the following:

- that the legal description of the property in the title commitment and survey match;
- that any easements, encroachments, and improvements are noted on the survey and have been examined to see if they are acceptable to the client;
- that it includes all the information that the parties requested.

While there are universal requirements for surveys within every state, the actual prepared surveys can vary in name and description and from community to community, according to Birnbaum.

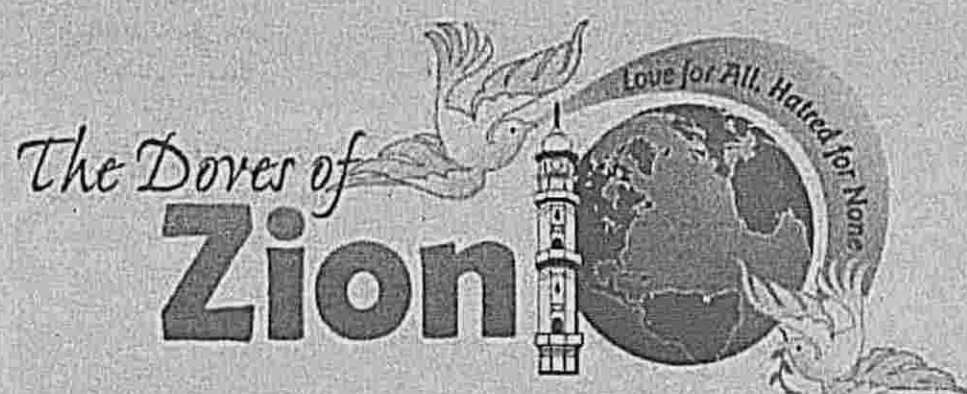

Through its 3,700 attorney-members, ATG strives to keep lawyers involved in real estate transactions for the benefit of the client. ATG is headquartered in Champaign and downtown Chicago and has offices in Mt. Prospect, Chicago (mid-north side), Homewood, Libertyville, Lombard, North Riverside, Oak Lawn, Wheaton and Belleville.

Former jailer (right)

face conspiracy,
forgery counts

Charles DeFilippo was due in court on Aug. 4 for arraignment on charges that he conspired to bilk a retirement fund out of $344,000.

A pair of former Lake County Sheriff's employees were expected in court on Aug. 4, after a Lake County grand jury handed down indictments to the former jail chiefs in connection with a fraudulent retirement scheme.

Charles M. DeFilippo, a former deputy director of the county Department of Corrections and Lawrence Lesza, once a director of the department, were each charged with one count of conspiracy to commit theft in excess of $100,000, and one charge of attempted theft exceeding $100,000. DeFilippo was additionally indicted on five counts of forgery while Lesza was charged with a single count of forgery. Each charge is a felony that could carry with it prison time.

"We contend that this was the result of a calculated scheme by these two men to bilk taxpayers of Lake County out of hundreds of thousands of dollars solely for the fraudulent benefit of former deputy Director DeFilippo," Attorney General Lisa Madigan said in a statement.

The indictment was the result of a two-year

New UCLC buildings bring more options for students

By Brian Janosch

Staff Reporter

Though the three-story structure on the College of Lake County's Grayslake campus isn't quite complete, it's already easy to see the giant wall of twisting windows that the building will feature, including a choice of architecture symbolic for a building that will surely serve as a window to further education for CLC's students.

The University Center of Lake County's $25.6 million project should culminate in time for fall classes to begin, and both the University Center and CLC are anxiously awaiting their future partnership.

"This enables us to provide more services that we were hampered by not having," said Gary Grace, University Center dean. "It's a chance to work closer with CLC and help students complete their bachelor programs."

CLC students hoping to complete their studies have traditionally been forced to travel either to Chicago or the University of Wisconsin-Parkside in Kenosha. Now those students will have the opportunity to finish their bachelor's or other degrees without even leaving the campus.

"As enrollment grows we might use some of that space, but the primary benefit here will be to students past and present," said Russ Peterson, interim president at CLC. "The long-term benefit to the college is that this will help us recruit more students to our two-year program."

The three story, 91,147-square-foot building will feature classrooms, conference rooms, relaxing alcoves, a library and a computer lab. Some of the most anticipated features include a story-and-a-half-tall conference space that can hold up to 150 people for any variety of activities.

Bean tells seniors how to prevent identity theft

Event is part of Lake County Council of Seniors' Senior Expo

By Nicholas Alajakis

Staff Reporter

With their large savings, limited knowledge of computer technology and good credit, senior citizens are often perfect targets for identity theft.

Add to that the fact that they live in relatively affluent suburbs, and Lake County seniors could be amongst the biggest targets, United States Congresswoman Melissa Bean (D-Barrington) told a large group of senior citizens at the Lake County Council of Seniors' Senior Expo.

A nearly packed auditorium listened as Bean, a member of the House Committee of Financial Services, described the ways people can be taken advantage of, and the legislation she is proposing that would protect against identity theft.

"Each American will leave his or herself open to identity theft dozens of times a day," Bean said. "Identity thieves will steal from (the elderly) because they know that's where the money is."

And while statistics and trends Bean presented show identity theft to be ever-increasing, she did offer some tips for protection. Bean's tips included heightened awareness on the Internet and the potential dangers that hackers and unsolicited e-social security card. ID thieves can easily take that information, she said.

It's the dangers of social security numbers that prompted Bean to look toward stopping the use of them on unnecessary documents. In the future she said she'd like to stop the use of social security numbers on Medicare.

Bean also spoke at length about a new bill she is sponsoring. The Consumer Data Survey and Notification Act would require that companies notify consumers when their information is at risk. The act would also strengthen the protection against the sale and collection of personal financial data.

While the information Bean gave was lengthy, Ken Willard, 82, of Lake Bluff, said he found it very helpful.

Willard said he was familiar with identity theft protection prior to the event, but was able to use it as a refresher course.

"Not everyone knows (how to protect themselves)," Willard said. "(Bean) did a good job explaining it."

investigation spurred when former corrections officer Michael Horowitz approached U.S. Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald with 24 separate allegations of misconduct in the sheriff's office. Horowitz was fired after he was found to have used excessive force against an inmate.

The former sheriff's employee, however, said in an interview he felt vindicated that some of his concerns had come to some sort of fruition.

"Those are a couple of the issues that I'd addressed in my letter," Horowitz said. "These are things that I've been saying all along. I never doubted myself because I knew they were true. It's just good to see that the facts came out."

While Horowitz added that he wasn't pleased to see the indictments handed down, he said he was not surprised that they were.

"It's the truth," he said.

At the heart of the charges was an alleged scheme geared at bilking the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund of more than $344,000, information released by Madigan's office reported.

DeFilippo was hired as a corrections officer in the early 1980s, but allegedly stated in a 1999 letter that he was originally hired as a deputy sheriff. The ranks carry with them different classification in the state pension fund, which means they also carry different benefits to retired officers.

According to an indictment issued by a Lake County jury last week, DeFilippo's allegedly falsified submission to the IMRF potentially raised his tenure by over $19,000 per year and could cost county taxpayers more than $344,000 if he was allowed to retire, as planned, in August 2008.

Lake County prosecutors alleged that DeFilippo could not have qualified for the higher pension without Lesza's approval. Lesza retired from his position as director of the corrections department in April 2000 and DeFilippo took over the position.

"It should be understood that regardless of a person's employment status, he cannot use that position to wrongfully benefit himself or to defraud the taxpayers," Lake County State's Attorney Michael Waller said in a statement.

DeFilippo resigned in July 2003 in the wake of controversy over statements he made in an online conversation with a woman. DeFilippo allegedly solicited the woman in a sexual nature.

Both former county employees now live in Florida. Conspiracy to commit theft in excess of $100,000 is a Class 4 felony, attempted theft a Class 2 felony and forgery is a Class 3 felony. The charges carry possible prison sentences of one to three years, three to seven years, and two to five years, respectively.

Lesza and DeFilippo, however, could receive probation for the alleged offenses.

They were scheduled to be arraigned in Lake County Court at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Also touted was the simple boost of technology that will come with the new building.

"There's $2.5 million in technology in the classrooms there, so the faculty can be more innovative and effective," Grace said.

Overall, Grace described the general feel of the building as comfortable, yet cutting edge. Exactly what the University Center has been hoping for since the planning process began in 1998.

"Having the design and planning processes behind us, we can concentrate on hitting the marks of the students," Grace said.

Scheduled to open sometime this fall, the University Center and its consortium of 17 colleges and universities will mostly benefit students studying business, technology and education-related majors. The University Center offers a wide range of degrees, but Peterson said that those three areas of study, in particular, will tend to overlap the most between the two programs.

All in all, "this will provide the people of Lake County with a choice," Grace said.

Building codes enforced on weekends

Lake County residents who have building and development concerns will be able to reach the County's Planning, Building and Development Department on weekends via an emergency number, 847-377-2600.

Residents can leave a recorded message regarding possible construction violations and an on-call building inspector will check the messages and respond to calls. Weekend enforcement will be ongoing until Oct. 15. Residents can also call the same number as above during normal business hours to speak with the Planning, Building and Development Department.

Billy Battistone of Lake Villa performs a song for the 2004 Miss Lake County Fair Queens Courtney Dugan, Joanna Ptasiński and Karolina Ptasiński during the Miss Lake County Fair pageant at Grayslake Community High School. Battistone was named the fair's first-ever Mr. Best in Show.

Hamming it up

Mr. Best of Show adds flavor to fair

After singing The Foundation's "Build Me Up Buttercup," discussing his most embarrassing moment and answering questions like, "What makes you irresistible?" 16-year-old Billy Battistone took first place in the first-ever Lake County Fair Mr. Best of Show contest.

The three-day competition was open to all male Lake County residents ages 16 through 21 who like to "ham it up." Contestants were judged in three different categories: Talent, speech and surprise questions.

Each category was worth a certain number of points. Contestants could also gain additional points from positive audience reactions.

Battistone had no problem entertaining the judges. He wowed everyone with his singing and by recounting a story about how he once guarded a benched person during a basketball game. When asked who his favorite celebrity crush was he said Jessica Simpson. He said his most irresistible attribute is his charm.

Nine people applied for the competition. Battistone was one of four finalists.

He said he applied for the event after his sister Lisa told him about it. It sounded like a fun thing to do, he said.

"It was really neat. Kids I'd never met before turned out to be good friends," he said. "People enjoyed it."

For winning first place, the Carmel Catholic High School student won $250 cash, a three-month membership to Gold's gym, free Fair tickets and an enormous ham.

He also got a chance to speak on the radio and briefly appeared on television.

His sister also won a gift certificate for referring him to the show.

Battistone said that many people in the community have congratulated him on his award. He said he may fight for the title again.

"If they do it again next year, I'd like to do it," he said.

Dentists drilled with back-to-school check ups

By Brian Janosch

Staff Reporter

Try getting in touch with a dentist in early August - it may take a while.

That's because area schools have taken it upon themselves to make sure their students are practicing good oral hygiene. All students entering kindergarten, second grade, sixth grade and freshman year of high school are required to get a dental check up before they can register for classes.

Since the exams were made mandatory, area dentists like Dr. David Rakoczy with the Lake County Health Department have had families practically beating down their doors.

For many the stop at the dentist is routine, but for some children the mandatory visits are the only chance they get to see a dentist. Though the exams are pretty basic, the dentists still look for major problems.

"Usually if it's obvious, it's on the verge of serious," Rakoczy said. "Kids don't learn very well when they're in pain."

Because many families have a hard time getting in for routine check ups, the Lake County Health Department is making it even easier to fulfill school's requirements. Their Belvidere Clinic in Waukegan will have free walk-in clinics from Aug. 8-10. Anyone can show up from 11:30-7:30 p.m. on Aug. 8, or 8:30-4:30 p.m. on Aug. 9 or 10.

The Lake County Health Department also works with the families to make the appointments affordable at their offices. Prices are adjusted according to income and size of family, and payment plans can be used. As to making sure there aren't any problems when the kids actually make their way into the dentists' office, Rakoczy said it's pretty much common sense.

"It's just taking care of yourself," he said. "Smaller kids don't know any better so it's up to the parents to make sure they are doing what they're supposed to."

Missing child program ignites response

By Kathy Gresey

Staff Reporter

The Lake County Sheriff's Office had a chance to use its recently acquired A Child Is Missing program last Monday.

At approximately 10 p.m. that day, the Sheriff's Office responded to a call regarding a missing 11-year old handicapped girl from the 900 block of Rockland Road in Knollwood.

Initially, members of the Sheriff's Office and Knollwood Fire Department saturated the area in search of the missing child. Shortly thereafter the Sheriff's Office made the decision to activate the A Child Is Missing program.

The program assists law enforcement agencies in the search and early recovery of missing children, the elderly and disabled using telephone alert calls. It can place one thousand phone calls in sixty seconds to residents and businesses in the area where a person went missing.

The activation of the Child Is Missing program generated an overwhelming response from the Knollwood community. The Sheriff's Office 911 Communications Center received more than 100 follow up phone calls within an hour and a half in response to the taped message.

"It is gratifying to see such a strong response from our community in an incident like this," said Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re.

Members of the community, Sheriff's Office and Knollwood Fire Department worked feverishly together to locate the missing child. Community members were seen taking an active role checking their neighborhoods, yards and parks.

At about 1 a.m. the next morning, the child was located safely in Highland Park. The cause of the missing child turned out to be a breakdown in communication between caregivers.

Now that the program has been used, Sgt. Christopher Thompson hopes that community members will be prepared to receive future alerts.

"We are happy now that people understand when they get a taped message they should stay on the line," said Thompson. "This is not a joke."

Should community members ever receive a taped call from A Child Is Missing, they are encouraged to call the number that is provided to them on the taped message.

Missing fugitive sought on warrant

Lake County Crime Stoppers and the Lake County Sheriff's Office/Warrants Division are seeking information regarding the whereabouts of a wanted fugitive.

Mega mall revival sparked by condos

There was a time when futurists and marketing gurus spoke about the demise of the shopping center. The experts were on target with Lakehurst Shopping Center as a good example of regional malls having an effective life of 25 years.

Not all regional malls, though, have had their life curtailed by the wrecking ball. Hawthorn Center continues to chug along after several makeovers and a new parent from Australia. Gurnee Mills has advanced to shopping center maturity without losing its zest or appeal. Elsewhere in the Chicago area, transfusions of new tenants and physical upgrades have preserved the viability of long-time malls like Northbrook Court and Old Orchard, the granddaddy of the North Shore.

With major shopping centers reinventing themselves as mixed use malls like northern Illinois' newcomer shopping magnet at the former Glenview Naval Air Station, combining retail with residential offers a sure-fire formula for resurgence in mall building.

Plans are unfolding for another mega mall with mixed use features—combining lots of retail outlets with lots of condos—with upscale shopping and expensive condos as the common denominator. That appears to be the future of the unnamed development destined for the Lake County Fairgrounds at Rtes. 45 and 120. The development is described as 1.2 million square feet. Exact usage still is in the discussion stage. Whatever residential uses being planned are spoken of as the “residential component.”

Mega malls still have a place in modern society, but only with lots of residential space put in the design. The idea is the have customers close at hand for new retail rentals.

Service area taxes aid school building

When school district lines don't match municipal boundaries as is the case in Illinois, there's really only one way to cope with the reality where a village can enjoy the financial income generated by growth and the neighboring community with the schools gets the headaches and costs of providing educational benefits. The guard amounts to school officials getting involved in the internal politics of the next door village that's bent on adding more rooftops.

Once again Grayslake Elementary School District 46 is faced with the dilemma of housing and educating children who will be generated by a proposed 500 home development for a 308 acre nursery at Fairfield Rd. and Rte. 120 that lies within the corporate boundaries of the Village of Round Lake and School District 46.

Getting the kids from Round Lake to house and educate is nothing new for the neighboring school district. Because of the meandering school District 46 boundaries that twist around three sides of the Round Lake area and Lake Villa, the Grayslake based school began providing education for the neighboring community as far back as the late 1920's. Accelerated growth and escalating school costs have compounded conflicts over the years. Currently Dist. 46 is building Madronna School on Rte. 120 with the help of a $30 million bond referendum approved by voters that will open in 2007.

When confronted with the reality of needing more classrooms before another new school opens, newly arrived Supt. Ellen Correll, less than a month on the job, said some serious study would be needed. Indeed. As we suggested, moreover some serious lobbying efforts will be needed to lighten the tax load on Dist. 46 that heretofore has had no say so in how the Village of Round Lake grows and develops.

Discussing education problems associated with growth, Round Lake Mayor Bill Gentes opened the door to additional school funding that could be accomplished with the recapture provisions of a special service district. This is how another district impacted by Round Lake's southward march, Fremont Consolidated, garnered funds to provide for a rush of new students. As we have noted on this page in recent weeks and the superintendent of another district reeling from the impact of Round Lake growth, Big Hollow elementary district, described in a letter to the editor, impact fees imposed by the growth orientated municipality don't do the job. Much funding is needed to even the playing field.

It's patently unfair when one town gets the kids and the other town gets the tax income from growth. What Gentes described as “transitional fees” created by a special service area will help. Political lobbying by the school district facing the inevitability of building more classrooms, providing teachers and supplying other school needs also is required.

VIEWPOINT

Fed road funding just crumbs for Lake

Bill Schroeder
Publisher

One of Grandma Meyer's favorite sayings was, “Charity begins at home.”

That sums up in a nutshell the state of road building funding in Lake County. After rejecting last spring what amounted to a self-help approach by raising the sales tax for local highway improvements, we're getting essentially left overs from federal sources.

If you can't (or don't want) to help yourself, you take what's handed out. After studying the new federal highway and transit funding program, it's difficult to find enough fed money to make much of a difference in correcting, or even easing, local gridlock.

In the five year federal spending plan, the biggest project appears to be $9 million for reramping the Rte. 60 bridge near Lake Forest to ease rush hour bumper to bumper travel. A lot of the money targeted for Lake County will go for studies and engineering, but not for construction. While you're crawling along Rtes. 60, 45, 83, 132, and 120, think of the engineers pouring over their drafting tables grinding out paper work that might be used in 2010.

If the Rte. 60 bridge work is Congressman Mark Kirk's show-piece, then Congresswoman Melissa Bean is beaming over $4.8 million for the extension of Atkinson Rd. from Rte. 120 to Rte. 137. How this bit of road work magic is going to move traffic easier and faster is hard to fathom.

County Board Chair Suzi Schmidt told reporters that nearly $2.1 million for engineering a Rte. 45 bypass of Millburn and Grass Lakes Rds., the “Millburn Strangler,” has been on her wish list to 20 years. Funny, I never thought much about that intersection. The Rtes. 83/120 intersection complicated by a rail crossing, the “83-120 Bottleneck,” was more on my mind—and thousands of other frustrated commuters.

The new fed program is mostly small potatoes stuff for Lake County, regardless of how the political spin. Maybe the sales tax proposition worth about $14 mil per year ought to be rethought. Gram, there's no charity when it comes to highway improvements, but that's where the building begins.

Wonders of walking

Lindenhurst Mayor Jim Betustak may be longing for the “good old days” when kids walked to school. All the way. All the time. No more. Part of his job now is finding solutions for mom's like Debbie Franson, who measure walking distances down to the 1/10th of a mile, inspect ground conditions and study long range weather conditions. Absent of sidewalks, Franson says no adult can cope with loads like the kids tote, 20-30 pound backpack, maybe a musical instrument or a sports bag or carrying bulky class projects. Probably not. Three Franson children live within the 1.5 mile where bus service is not offered. Franson's pet peeve is the householder who doesn't shovel snow in the winter.

One man's family

Grandson Tommy picked the first tomato from the once spindly plant he put in the ground last spring with his grandmother's help. “It was so small,” he marveled at the vines that now tower over his head. Tom has his work cut out to gather all the fruit. Looks like bumper crop.

Freedom isn't free: it costs $60

I discovered that freedom isn't free. It costs $60. And it isn't forever. It is for 30 days. And it isn't everywhere in the United States. It can be restricted to a few square feet of grass.

An editorial in the July 8 edition of Lakeland Media newspapers noted that two communities, Northbrook and Highland Park, have instituted “speech parks.”

The premise is that there are areas reserved for posting of signs on any topic, religious or political, except for candidacies and obscenities (often one and the same thing).

The Highland Park ordinance allows two displays at a time, for 30 days, by permit, for a fee of $60.

The editorial describes these parks as “a safety valve” where “fervent thoughts can be expressed in public without public reprisal.”

Funny, I thought that was the description of the United States of America, as outlined in the First Amendment of the Constitution.

As for “safety valves,” where was it ever written that freedom is “safe?” Freedom is messy, dangerous and therefore, dynamic, engendering change, as opposed to totalitarianism, which is tidy in its monolithic structure, secure in its enforcement, and, therefore, static, as only “approved” thought is admitted.

Underlying the “speech park” idea there is a certain lack of understanding in the related but differing concepts of freedom of speech and the avoidance of state endorsement of specific religions.

To begin with, freedom of speech is, and should remain, free in every sense. The idea of charging fees for people to express themselves, and having a permit process wherein divergent or “seditious” philosophical or political expression might be censored, is in direct opposition to the meaning and spirit of the First Amendment.

Public parks, depending on how they are financed, are public property. Displays in parks paid for by taxpayers should not be restricted to those who are willing to pay an additional fee in order to express them-

PARTY LINES

THIS COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS

Longest running candidate buoyed

A Republican candidate who once served in the U.S. Marine Corps is promising an all-out drive to topple one of Lake County's most entrenched Democratic office holders.

"It can be done," declared Greg Jackson, a self-employed public policy consultant. "That's why I started early," added Jackson, who announced in November, 2004, that he would challenge State Sen. Terry Link (D-Waukegan) of the 30th Dist. in the 2006 general election. Presupposing he wins the GOP nomination next spring, Jackson will have been campaigning for nearly 24 months when election time rolls around.

Jackson, a resident of Buffalo Grove, is spending the summer making personal appearances, raising money and building a campaign staff. His new Web site www.teamjackson.org soon will be operative.

Two of Jackson's most ardent supporters, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Jackson, won't be able to vote for him because they are residents of Antioch in the 31st Senatorial Dist. But that didn't stop them from hosting a mid-July lawn party for contributors. More than 85 persons attended.

Link has proved to be a potent vote getting since elected to the State Senate a decade ago. A Democratic sponsored redistricting plan fits Link like glove. The 31st includes Vernon Hills, where he formerly resided, parts of Libertyville and Democratic strongholds in Waukegan and North Chicago.

Jackson: Sees long drive needed to topple popular foe.

Madigan: Returning to Lake to generate Demo interest.

Jackson theorized that he can win with a strong Republican turnout in the elongated district and getting support from Democrats who agree with his basically conservative, budget conscious philosophy of state government. "This will be an issues-orientated campaign. No dirty stuff," Jackson asserted.

Madigan booked

Illinois Atty. Gen. Lisa Madigan will be in the spotlight for the next meeting of the Lake County Democratic Women. Madigan will be guest speaker at the fourth power brunch Sunday, Sept. 18, at Hotel Moraine, Highland. Registration begins at 11:30 a.m. Lake County Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vander Venter can provide additional information.

Picnic organized

Lillian Golonka, former Antioch postmistress and long-time Republican activist, is heading up arrangements for the annual Lake County Republican Picnic scheduled for Sunday, August 28, at Lakewood Forest Preserve. Organizers aim at creating an old-fashioned political rally-picnic with a family flavor. There will be plenty of food, fun activities and some political speeches (naturally). Cost is $10 per person or $25 per family. Golonka can provide additional information at 847-395-1872.

Democratic challenger

Democrat leaders in the 10th Congressional Dist. are relieved to have a candidate willing to take on third-term Republican incumbent Congressman Mark Kirk. He is Zane Smith of Winnetka, who heads his own law firm located in Chicago. Smith has experience in elected office as a member of the Winnetka Park District. In announcing his candidacy, Smith said he will be operating a grass-roots campaign that he hopes will translate into votes and financial support.

New look

To silence any wagging tongues, Forest Preserve President Bonnie Tomson Carter hastens to explain that there isn't a new man in her life, "just the same one with a new look." Husband Tom, recently retired after 30 years in the teaching profession, grew a full beard to celebrate his retirement. Bonnie likes Tom's beard. That's all that counts.

Noise pollution

Officials of Lindenhurst said they're ready to take the bad with the good in connection with the environmental decision to stock village ponds, lakes and wetlands with 600 North American frogs. At a cost of $300, village council members thought the cost was worthwhile. Maybe they'll have second thoughts when complaints are sounded about noisy bullfrogs. Depending on your viewpoint, bullfrogs sing or croak. Six hundred of the critters ought to be able to mount a pretty good chorus.

Getting criticized

County Board Rep. Anne Flanigan Baise (D-Highland Park) expressed frustration of her colleagues when criticized for traffic congestion induced by development. "The county will get blamed," sighed Baise when commenting about the 112 acre Lake County Fairgrounds development of a mega shopping mall with 250 town homes. The county's only involvement is getting sewer service to the site.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Back with the 'old' with ties to Welton

A rejected trustee candidate means that there are three individuals on the Gurnee Village Board who have a desire for "political" balance. Few can deny that Mr. Foster is a caring, even loving, dedicated, focused man of integrity. These can be good traits. However, why is it that so many citizens forget who Mr. Foster's allegiance is to? Who appointed him to the Planning Commission? Former Mayor Dick Welton. When Mr. Foster ran for village trustee whose "ticket" was he attached to? Why, then Mayor Welton's ticket. And whose campaign signs were displayed in Mr. Foster's yard this year? Ms. Kovarik's. To say Mr. Foster "...has no political ties..." in our wonderful community is either misrepresentation or ignorance of history.

Let's fast forward to 2005 and we see a strong influence of former Mayor Welton in the now Mayor Kovarik's campaign and "leadership." Wasn't he in attendance at a number of her rallies and mayoral induction celebrations? Yes, he was. And, who does our "new" mayor meet with at a local restaurant? Former Mayor Welton. And, it is quite interesting to note that a Libertyville based businessman, real estate entrepreneur and virulent opponent of School District 56's many referendums, just happened to place close to 2,500 calls in support of Mr. Foster on July 11. How does this man's support of Mr. Foster dovetail into the Kovarik administration's method of operation? What is the true philosophy of this group? Do they have a clear vision for the village and methods to realize that "vision?"

Changes were made since the long-standing Mayor Welton was replaced by Mr. Rudny. All of these changes were for the benefit of Gurnee. Now, we, the people, are on the brink of returning to an old system that may have worked back then for a few of the special people, but one that is not needed for this present time or the future. Pandering to a few, citizens and developers, needs to stay in the grave where Mr. Rudny and intelligently-minded trustees placed it.

I too believe that Mr. Foster should not be a trustee unless he's voted in during an election. I say this simply because I've experienced the less than savory side of the Gurnee's pre-Rudny administration. The recent election has put Gurnee on the precipice of a neo-Weltonian administration because of his obvious allegiances. Placing Mr. Foster into a trustee position would return the community to its old ways. As a community, we do not need this. Finally, which side of town is Mr. Foster from? Why, the East side. How about selecting an "independent" candidate from the West side? That too would be unique.

I say "thank you" to the three stalwart trustees for their approach to the problem of a new trustee. The only problem is they're a bit off the mark by not including a few more good reasons to prevent Mr. Foster from becoming the new mayor's trump card. Reasons that will help return Gurnee to the way it was - citizen favoritism, favors for developers and bulking up Village Hall with unnecessary bureaucrats and cronies that will cost Gurnee's residents higher taxes and more.

Frank S. Gattolin
Gurnee

Village embarrassed

I needed to be able to express my frustration over the ongoing difficulties of the new Village of Gurnee Board and the continuing "Obstructionist" tactics of the three "Holdover" trustees against our new mayor. What happened at the July 12 meeting with Mr. Karlovics' grandstanding and a personal attack on David Grosskopf, was an embarrassment to all of us attending.

Thomas Maratea
Gurnee

Expensive Web site

This is to clarify the action of the Village of Round Lake Park Trustees. At no time did we decide that we no longer wanted a Web site for the village.

After volunteering to manage a Web site for the village, the mayor's son felt it was time he received compensation for his work. He proposed to maintain the Web site as well as do internet technology work for $25,000. While it may be legal to hire a family member of the mayor, the trustees that voted down the hiring of her son twice, feel that it is not ethical to do so, and feel that this is not the correct time to employ a person for I.T. work.

Our village has grown, but at a slower pace than surrounding communities and we feel that the amount of money could be put to better use. We also feel that the mayor's son although self taught in I.T. work has no formal training or certification in that field. The majority of the residents that we have talked to also feel this way.

After the second time we voted against the proposed contract the mayor's son decided to pull the plug on the Web site he maintained. At no time did the trustees instruct him to do this. He decided that since we would not employ him he would shut it down. Yes, it's a shame that we currently don't have a Web site but please be assured that we are working on hiring an outside firm to design and maintain, a professional Web site so that the village will own the domain name as well as the Web site so that this will not happen again.

We do understand the importance of having one, and it may cost the village some money but not $25,000.

Jean McCue, Ken Schnur, Chris Lucus, Bob Seminary
Trustees of the Village of Round Lake Park

Fire Karl Rove

We know that Karl Rove revealed the identity of an undercover CIA agent to reporters Matt Cooper of TIME magazine and columnist Robert Novak. He either broke the law or was grossly negligent with national secrets yet he still works in the White House. Karl Rove and other leakers in the White House ousted a CIA agent in order to discredit a critic of the Bush Iraq policy. Outing an undercover CIA agent hurts our national security.

President Bush should keep his promise and fire Karl Rove. There needs to be a full accounting to the American people about what happened in this CIA leak case. We cannot let this get swept under the carpet!

COMMENTARY

selves. In fact, by setting a fee for a right guaranteed to every citizen of the United States, the municipality opens itself up to a possible lawsuit for denial of equal protection under the law.

This is the equivalent of the notorious "poll taxes" that were used to curtail voting rights of indigent African-Americans before the passing of the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

As for the content of such displays, it may well be that an "all or nothing" policy is the most fair. Either all opinions, philosophies, creeds and religions are allowed to display signs, symbols and icons, or none is.

This means equal footing must be accorded to the cross and the swastika; to the six-pointed Star of David and the five-pointed pentagram of Wicca; to "right-to-life" groups and the National Association for the Reform of Abortion Laws. Let Alcoholics Anonymous go head-to-head with the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws. Let the PTA go up against NAMBLA. And all at once, because if any one viewpoint is allowed, all must be allowed.

This imposition of institutionalized discretion in permitting free speech is not only offensive, but also chilling, as yet another piece of our birthright of liberty is sold for the illusory pottage of comfort, security and the artificial peace of silenced thought.

Nowhere in the Constitution is there a price of admission to freedom. The one implied, the price paid by the blood shed by those who defend it, is dishonored by such attempts to relegate liberty to a few square feet, on certain days, for certain people.

AROUND THE COUNTY

Duck Race benefit

The 12th Annual Duck Race and Pool Party to benefit Hospice of Northeastern Illinois will be Aug. 13, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Langendorf Park in Barrington.

A free community event, the Duck Race is an annual fund-raiser to benefit Hospice of Northeastern Illinois patient care programs and the development of new services. The highlight of the evening is multiple heats of plastic ducks "racing" down the water slides at the Aqualusion Family Aquatic Center with prizes for the all the heat winners, and in return, heat winning ducks are entered into the grand prize race. Ducks are $5 for one, $25 for six and $100 for 25.

Ducks may be "adopted" online at www.HospiceAnswers.org; Barrington Sidewalk Days; by calling 847-381-5599, Ext. 252; or until 7 p.m. on the night of the Duck Race.

Grant provides resources to college

Students and instructors at the College of Lake County are learning more about the world around them, thanks to some special new resource materials purchased by the Murphy Library at the College of Lake County. Funds for the materials were provided through a $4,000 Library Services and Technology Act grant from the Illinois State Library.

The focus of the grant is to purchase materials to aid students in understanding and exploring current world issues, cultures, customs, history and politics in regions of the world that traditionally have not been as familiar. These include areas whose recent history has brought renewed attention such as the Middle East nations, Asia, the new independent states of the former Soviet Union and the expanding nations of Africa.

Brownfield Fund grants

The Lake County Board announced intergovernmental agreements with three communities which were unanimously approved to provide funding for environmental studies at three brownfield sites.

Waukegan received $52,750 for an environmental study of the former Chicago Rubber Company properties. North Chicago received $47,500 for environmental study of properties located between 1812 and 1820 Sheridan Road. Buffalo Grove received $12,500 for an environmental study of a former garbage dump in unincorporated Deerfield.

For more information about County Board meetings, agendas and resolutions are available on the Lake County Web site at www.co.lake.il.us.

Victory ER ups trauma treatment

Vista Health's Victory Memorial Hospital will operate a comprehensive Level II Trauma Center for people who require immediate attention for life's emergencies—ranging from serious, life-threatening injuries to high fevers. Patients can expect the same level of compassionate medical care as they have come to expect from Vista's Saint Therese Medical Center.

Key elements of a Level II Trauma Center include 24-hour immediate coverage by independent general surgeons as well as coverage by independent physicians in the following specialties—orthopedic surgery, neurosurgery, anesthesiology, emergency medicine, radiology and critical care. Critical trauma patients include people with major blood loss or shock as the result of car accidents, falls or other injuries who require prompt surgical intervention.

SMC heralded by NACo

The National Association of Counties (NACo) has awarded the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) an Achievement Award for SMC's countywide program to reduce nonpoint source pollution.

The program, National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Phase II (NPDES Phase II), is a partnership between SMC, the County, and the municipalities in the county. NPDES Phase II focuses on improving water quality of our lakes, streams and wetlands by reducing pollution.

Embroiderers stitch gifts for Habitat for Humanity

Local members of the Embroiderer's Guild of America presented framed embroidered samplers to 23 Habitat for Humanity families. The families will all be neighbors in Carter Woods in Waukegan, the first subdivision built by Habitat for Humanity Lake County.

The housewarming gifts were hand-stitched by members of the Guild. They will be presented during the dedication ceremony for the latest home to be completed in Carter Woods.

The Embroiderer's Guild of America, dedicated to preserving the art and heritage of embroidery, has been stitching the mementos for Habitat families nationwide for several years. The samplers include the Habitat for Humanity logo, the family's name and the year they move into their new home.

A sampler will also be presented for the Habitat for Humanity office in Waukegan.

ONTHEMOVE

CCCU names 3 new managers

Consumers Cooperative Credit Union (CCCU) recently promoted three employees to new management positions at the Member-owned credit union. Katy Thomas was promoted to the new position of Contact Center Manager; Patricia Sanchez was promoted to Deposit Specialist; and, the Member-owned credit union welcomed back Sandra De Jesus as Branch Manager in Waukegan.

Thomas, a former Member Service Representative from the Round Lake Beach office, has been with CCCU for almost four years, with extensive experience.

Sanchez was formerly the Member Service Manager at the credit union's Waukegan office. She is CCCU's first Deposit Specialist, a position created to better serve Members needs. Sanchez has been with CCCU for more than five years. DeJesus was the Branch Manager at the Round Lake Beach branch from 2002-04. She rejoins Consumers Cooperative Credit Union to manage the organization's largest office. DeJesus has 10 years of experience at CCCU.

New HR manager at Baxter and Woodman

Amy S. Turner has been retained by Baxter and Woodman, Inc. as the new Human Resources Manager. She currently holds a Master's in Human Resources Management from Keller Graduate School and has worked in the field for over ten years. Turner is looking forward to the challenge of developing and designing the Human Resources Department and "to working with the outstanding employees of Baxter & Woodman, Inc." Originally from Waterloo, Iowa, she currently resides in Grayslake with her husband, Barry, and her daughter, Sara.

Vista employee earns citizen's service award

LuAnna Shelton, of Beach Park is one of three area residents being honored by the Lake County Medical Society. For over 20 years the Lake County Medical Society has been recognizing people in our community.

TURNER

Their Citizen's Service Award brings special recognition to non-physician individuals for their work or volunteer activities.

Shelton is being recognized for her years of dedicated, job-related nursing, teaching, and exceptional volunteer efforts at Vista Health Victory Memorial Hospital. Her efforts to provide assistance and educational support to so many people during difficult times have truly made a difference.

Consumers supports county activities

It's been an active summer of community involvement for staff at Consumers Cooperative Credit Union (CCCU). The Member-owned credit union has lent support to a variety of worthwhile activities by actively participating in community, charity and business events throughout Lake County.

"Supporting local events such as parades and village festivals is a very high priority for Consumers Cooperative Credit Union," said Sean M. Rathjen, CCCU President. "The credit union is only as strong as the communities we serve, so it's important for us to roll up our sleeves and get involved wherever possible. Sometimes that means involvement, while other times these organizations need financial support - so we try to meet each one at its level of need. We're able to do that because we are blessed with employees who also believe in this approach - folks willing to take the time to participate in community activities."

Consumers Cooperative Credit Union was out in force for the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life at Bevier Park in Waukegan. Collecting $6,316 in donations for the American Cancer Society, the hearty group stepped off to walk throughout the night and into the wee morning hours in support of this worthwhile cause.

Consumers Cooperative Credit Union

employees were also involved in several community activities. The credit union had an impressive showing at Waukegan's Independence Day Parade, with nearly 40 staff members and players on local teams sponsored by CCCU. Later that same night, another crew from the credit union staffed a fundraising tent at Mundelein Days.

Other summer involvement included support for golf outings hosted by the Lake County and GLMV Chamber of Commerce, Mundelein MainStreet and the T.W. Doig Chapter of Credit Unions. The credit union is sponsoring activities at Gurnee Days, will it will also have a booth.

Management of food service course coming to CLC

An information session on the College of Lake County's Food Service Management (FSM) and Culinary Arts programs will be on Aug. 15, from 6 to 8 p.m., in the Willow Room (C001) on the Grayslake Campus.

Clifford Wener, FSM coordinator, will review CLC's food service program, which provides technical training in food preparation, food operations and food service management.

The program is designed for individuals who are interested in starting their own business or pursuing careers as chefs, cooks or managers of catering services, restaurants or institutions.

Wener will provide information on the associate in applied science degree program in Food Service Management and shorter-term certificates in Culinary Arts, Professional Cook and Food Service Management. He also will discuss career opportunities, the job outlook and salary ranges. For more information, or to RSVP for the open house, call 847-543-2823.

Back-to-School saving secrets

It's back to school, and you know what that means — shopping! Stocking up on new shoes, pens, pencils and more year in and year out can take a toll on the wallet. In fact, the most recent study by the National Retail Federation on back-to-school spending habits found that families with school-age children planned to spend about $500 on back-to-school items in 2004. Since that number was up 7.2 percent from 2003, it's bound to go up even higher in 2005!

Shopping for school supplies doesn't have to add up to a financial nightmare. Here are some creative ways to keep money in your wallet and save it for...college!

1. Go through your own house. Your kids may want a new box of crayons, but if you have four unopened boxes sitting in the playroom, there's no need to buy a new one. Encourage sharing of supplies amongst siblings. If your oldest daughter Jackie finds two new packages of loose leaf paper in her desk drawer, ask her to give one package to her younger brother, Steven.

2. Set a budget. After taking an inventory of what supplies you already have, make a prioritized list of what you need for the school year. And check your school's dress code before going on a shopping spree. Loop your child in on the budget. That way, he can get a practical lesson in math outside the classroom.

3. Don't feel like you have to buy everything before school starts. Over the summer, a teacher may send a list of what you need to buy, but that doesn't mean you have to buy those items immediately. Start with the essentials like pens, pencils and erasers, and buy the extras like the protractor and fancy eraser later on down the road. Teachers may change lesson plans during the school year, and your child may not even need those extra items after all. Waiting also gives you a chance to shop for those items during clearance sales.

4. Clip your way to savings. That means scanning papers and flyers for coupons. Get the kids into coupon clipping and you're also instilling in them a lesson in budgeting.

5. Hunt for bargains. You'll notice that one store puts staplers on sale and another has rulers on sale. That's why it's important to shop around. The back-to-school section of the drug-store may not be your best bet. You might find that items are cheaper at office-supply or bulk warehouse stores. Just don't shop too much! You'll end up spending your budget on gas!

6. Wrap books creatively. Don't waste money on textbook covers. Use old wrapping paper for a creative touch. Take the cartoon section from the newspaper to add some color to a book cover. Wrap books in brown-paper grocery bags and kids can decorate to their hearts' content.

7. Make it yourself. You don't have to be a seamstress to make your kids' school supplies. To make a pencil pouch, sew together two pieces of fabric in your son's favorite shade of blue. Then stitch his name on the front. Or, look to household basics that can double as school supplies. Concoct a pencil holder from an old can of frozen juice. Finished boxes of cereal and detergent can make magazine or book holders.

8. "Steal" it. Your office may have a surplus of pencils or notebooks that will eventually be thrown away. Just ask someone before you pilage the supply closet, of course!

9. Spend more and save. Sometimes you have to spend a little bit more to get a better-quality item. That blue plastic backpack may be cheap, but if you have to replace it by holiday break, it's not worth it. So spend a few extra dollars, and that backpack will still be in one piece come the last day of school!

Back to school shopping is an annual rite of passage. Keep costs down by following some easy tips.

How to prepare your child for academic success

As parents, we send our kids off to school hoping they'll come home with a report card full of A's. Every parent wants a successful student, but not every parent knows how to foster one. The key, in fact, lies in what parents do when their children are not in school. Parents can take several steps at home to ensure success in the classroom.

1. Create a "reading culture" at home. Reading is the foundation of all skills learned in school. A love of reading helps students with their vocabulary and problem-solving skills. Thus, parents must start early when encouraging their children to read.

Parents and caregivers can take steps at home to ensure they're fostering the right learning habits for success in school.

First, be sure that your child sees that you value reading. Show your child that you read for pleasure and that reading is required for many day-to-day activities. Read recipes, directions, and newspapers aloud to your child while you are completing housework. When your child is of reading age, ask him to read these items to you.

The U.S. Department of Education recommends limiting television watching to less than two hours a day. Teach your children that reading can be just as much fun as the TV. Be sure that your house is filled with age-appropriate books and magazines, and encourage your child to read a book instead of turning on the television. The U.S. Dept. of Education has a guide to fun activities to encourage your child to read, found at www.ed.gov. The more your child reads during elementary school, the easier it will be to read more material in the higher grade levels.

2. Encourage your kids to be independent problem solvers. If parents are ready to solve the slightest problem for their children, from tying their shoes to cleaning up spilled juice, their kids will not be willing to complete projects at school. Instead of jumping in to help, praise your child when she solves a difficulty on her own. (However, be sure to only praise her if she succeeds at a difficult task; praising for every accomplishment won't encourage her to try new challenges.) If she can't figure out a math problem, don't show her the answer. Encourage her to try a different method of solving the equation.

Teach your children how to break down big jobs into small steps. A student who can separate cleaning her room into laundry, bed making, and dusting will be adept at handling projects, such as book reports and science fair posters, in the classroom later on. Be sure to reward your child for starting a project early and organizing her time well by getting her a new book or treating her to ice cream.

Acquiring this skill will hopefully prevent her from staying up all night to finish a paper in high school and college!

Finally, let your child take responsibility for her own mistakes. If her teacher tells you that your little angel is too talkative in class or doesn't turn in her homework on time, don't rush to her defense. Find out your daughter's side of the story, and if it is true, let her accept the consequences of her actions, which will help her act more responsibly in the future.

3. Make school a priority. Parents who want successful students need to show their kids that school is of utmost importance. The best way to convey this idea is to team up with your child's teacher. On the first day of school, find out your district's standards and course of study. Know what your child is expected to be able to do by the end of the year, and help her work towards those goals. E-mail your child's teacher periodically to find out how your child is performing, and let your child know that you and her teacher are keeping in touch.

Also, make sure that your budding student has a "homework space" in your house. It should be a writing surface in a quiet area of your home, away from distractions. She needs pens and pencils, lined and graph paper, a calculator, and a dictionary. Her study space should be far away from the TV or phone, but close to you in case she needs help. Let your child decorate this special space to her liking to make it her own. Then, decide with your child how much time she will allot to homework each night. Setting a regular schedule helps her develop a routine. Even if she doesn't have homework on a particular night, encourage her to use the time to read or complete extra practice problems. The more she becomes accustomed to a certain amount of work each night, the easier she will find it complete her homework.

Finally, be sure to focus on what your child is learning rather than the grade he is getting. While grades can be a measure of success, it is more important that your child is acquiring good study habits and new skills. And focusing on the grade can tempt you to "help" too much with homework and projects. Let your child know you are proud of the progress he's made, and the grades will follow. Soon, your child will become a star student!

Kids explore new worlds through Irish dance

The McNulty School of Irish Dance offers kids a fun way to connect with today's multi-cultural world. Irish dancers develop concentration, coordination & self-confidence while learning to appreciate world dance traditions. McNulty dancers stretch their minds as well as their physical abilities - to embrace new ideas, respect world cultures, and build new friendships while appreciating old traditions.

The McNulty School offers opportunities for student to compete, perform, and travel with Irish Dance. Later this summer, the McNulty Irish Dancers will be performing at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield (Mon Aug 15), a Schaumburg Flyers Baseball game (Fri Aug 26), Peoria's Erin Fest (Sat Aug 27), St. Catherine's Irish Fest in West Dundee (Sun Sep 11), and Chicago Celtic Fest (Sat Sep 17).

Barbara McNulty T.C.R.G. founded the McNulty School in 1971. She is certified to teach Irish dance by the Irish Dance Commission in Dublin, Ireland (hence the 'T.C.R.G.' designation).

"It is so important that Irish dance teachers be certified, to assure cultural integrity in their work, and so their students may participate in sanctioned competitions," says McNulty. Certification is a grueling process. It requires personal mastery of hundreds of dances; the successful completion of written and auditory exams; and passing stringent adjudication in dance performance and teaching.

The McNulty School of Irish Dance offers classes for children and adults, with special boys only and teen beginner classes in some locations.

Broaden your child's horizon...Enroll today and see where Irish dance can take you.

Pet OF THE WEEK

BAILEY AND ZIMBA

A mother and son duo ready to keep you well-loved and entertained! Mom, Zimba (black), can definitely outrun her son and can often be found softly body-slammng her son to get him to chase her. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't...well Bailey does carry a little bit too much weight, so he feels that it is wise occasionally to ignore her. Instead he happily plops himself in the pool and watches her run around, much more relaxing. They both get along with dogs and cats and would do well with older children. They would love a fenced-in yard, and although Bailey probably doesn't want to hear it, a little bit of a diet would do him good. Zimba (about 10 years old) and Bailey (about 7) need a home together. Don't let their age fool you, they are much more active than some of the middle-aged dogs!

Table hockey making comeback, Gurnee man
at forefront

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

Rob Chargo stands at the ready. With his senses on full alert and his nerves frayed and body sore from 11 hours of action, Chargo is eagerly anticipating the drop of the puck at center ice.

The eyes of the crowd are firmly set upon him and his opponent, with nothing less than a national title on the line. Though he's exhausted, Chargo's mind is as alert as it was when he started the tournament half a day earlier.

The referee stands with the puck in hand, ready to kick off the final round. He holds his hand over the centerline and drops the puck—and they're off, racing toward immortality.

Chargo's feet don't move, however. There's not a skate in the house, and the only sticks are plastic and less than two inches long. Heck, the only ice within a square mile of the room is likely floating in the nearest glass of water.

The game isn't ice hockey, but table hockey. Made famous in the 1970s and early '80s before falling off the radar, table hockey is making a comeback.

And Chargo, a 48-year-old Gurnee resident, is good at it. Very good. Though he went on to lose in the finals, ending his bid for a second straight national title, Chargo is among the country's best. He's currently ranked second in the U.S., despite coming back to the game just two years ago after a 20-year lay-off.

"I was real good at the game growing up, and I happened to stumble on it again on the Internet," Chargo said.

'I just love that one-on-one competition. And this game really simulates a real hockey game and I excel at it. It also brings back some of my youth and lets my competitive juices flow.'

Rob Chargo
Gurnee resident and national table
hockey champion

"I saw a guy's name from Worcester, Mass. who I knew from years ago and I e-mailed him and he got back to me and told me about a league in Lemont. I didn't do too well at first (in the league) because I wasn't used to the game, but I got better real quick."

For Chargo, it was like starting all over because table hockey as he knew it doesn't exist anymore. The old sets were made by Monroe and Coleco, and have been out of production for more than two decades.

When most people think about table hockey, they envision a bubble top, giant handles jutting out the side of the set and elongated sticks. But

I'm fixin' for some down-home sports fun

Ahh... the great Midwest—there's just something remarkable about our great melting pot of hillbillies and emerging economies. Lake County is a perfect example of such a hodgepodge because of our primordial stew of Chicago business people and good ol' boys.

I have to argue that we should not turn our backs on our Midwestern charm. Therefore, I want to give a shout out to some of our fairground classics that have received a bit of a black eye from suburban elitists.

The mid-summer is primetime for some old-fashioned sports fun with county and state fairs celebrating hot weather and bursting crop yields.

Rodeos are a classic fairground draw that many should give a try. Now, I personally have never understood what makes a normal person get on top of a 2,000 pound beast that simply does not want you there, but the sheer skill involved cannot be denied. The draw of many of our more primal mainstream sports such as boxing, ultimate fighting and even football or rugby is the potential for injury, and rodeo has "emergency room" written all over it.

Dirt track racing is also a lot of fun for all viewers. While NASCAR has taken auto racing to the national level, this is where it all began, and truthfully, it's the most fun. On a dirt track, there's an unpredictability factor that allows for numerous fender-benders and jockeying for position involving your front bumper and the other guy's rear quarter panel.

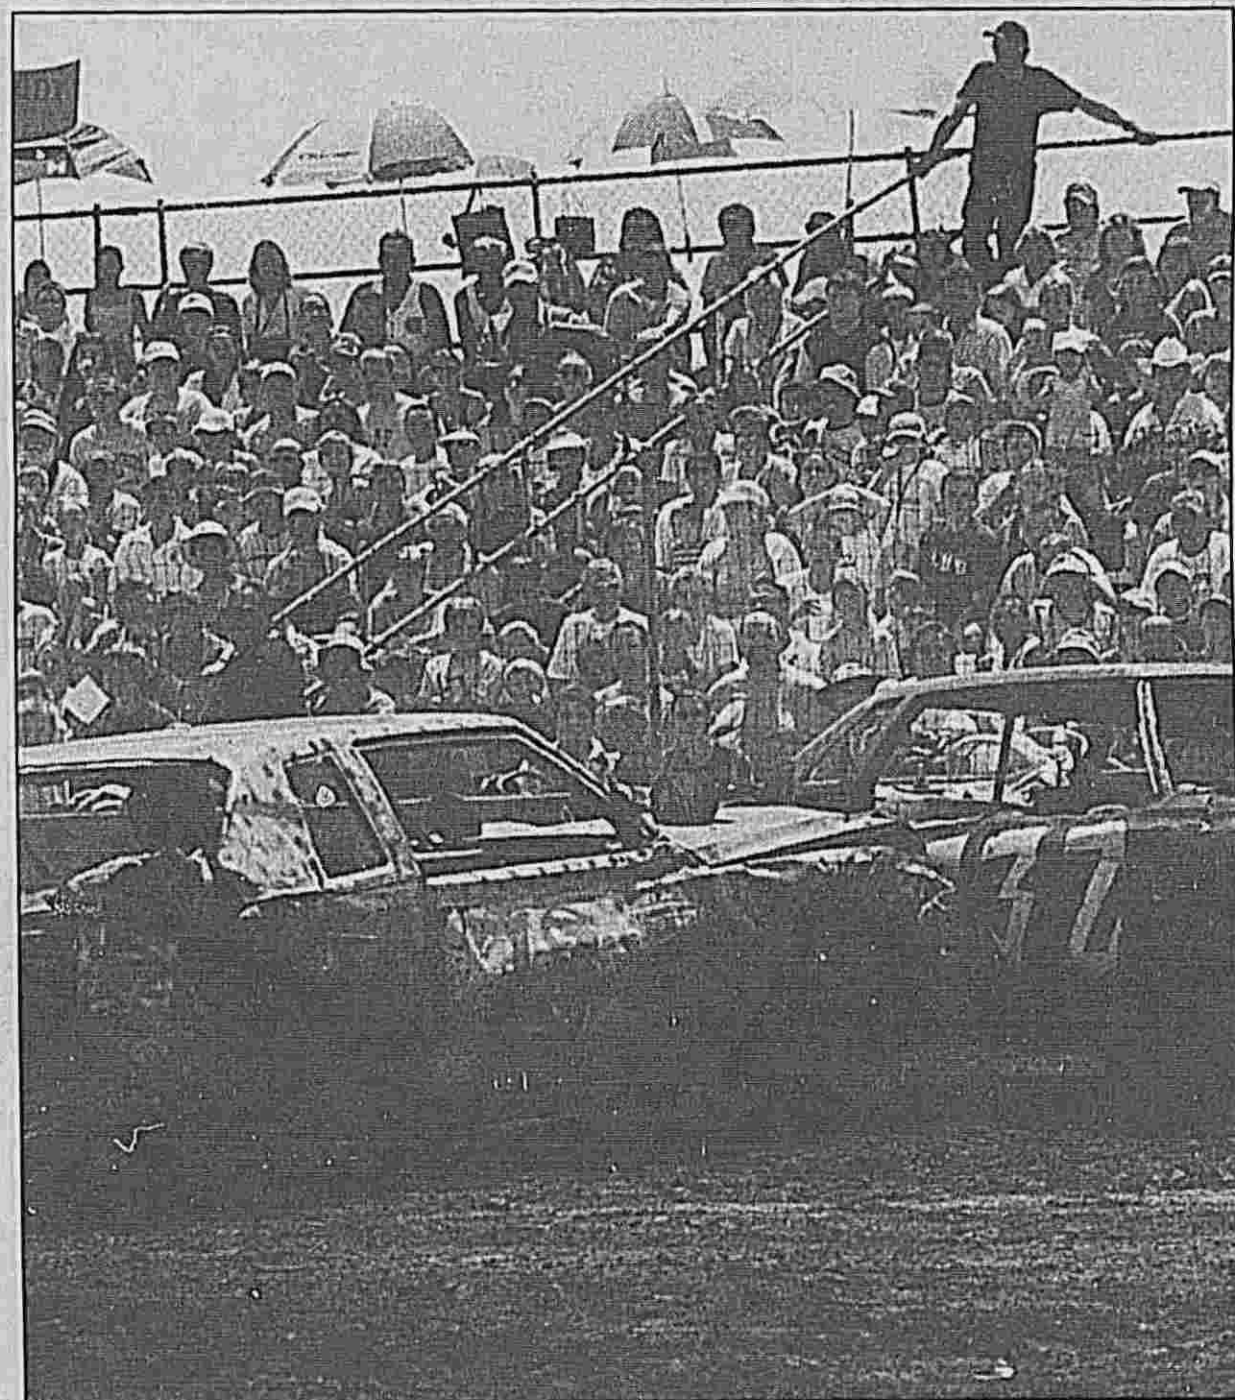

After all, when you watch race highlights on ESPN, what are you looking for? I'd be willing to place a pretty big bet that it's the

A smashing good time

Demolition derbies cure lonely evenings, acute road rage

By Dan Patrick
Sports Reporter

It's a universal feeling, the unbridled white-hot anger that comes with a particularly untalented driver on the road seemingly breaking every traffic law known to man. While the initial reaction is to put that driver in their place with a nice metal-to-metal greeting, but the unfortunate hand of the law prevents us from taking our primal urges.

However, for some participants in a Lake County Fair staple, there is no need to hold back as they compete in automotive fights to the death at fairs across the country. According to Mundelein demolition derby veteran Greg Elser, such competitions are a great way to relieve frustration from the drive to the arena.

"I do it for the road rage," Elser said. "I've been doing this for ten years and I can't get enough of it. I mean, where else can you go to just smash the other guy's car like this? It's just civilized road rage."

"Civilized" might not be the word most people use to describe such contests, but the amount of workmanship it takes to make one of these deathsleds is more extensive than one might think. Most cars used within the derbies are production models from before 1975, thanks to the larger amount of metal used in those days along with stronger leaf spring suspensions. For demolition drivers, the more metal there is to crush, the tougher their cars are.

However, it's not just the original manufacturer who holds the blowtorch as many at-home modifications must be made from top to bottom in order to strengthen the cars. The cars might look like misshapen junkyard dogs, but there is a lot of work to be done before a car even hits the arena.

Tires use inner-tubes or are even "double-bagged" in order to prevent punctures, cross members and frames are strengthened, engines and fuel systems are moved as close to the middle of the car as possible and all unneeded interior and engine parts make their way to the garbage bin. In short, these cars are made for one purpose and one purpose only — destroy all competitors.

"I'm using an old station wagon because it's got plenty crumple space before it hits anything I need to run," Grayslake's Steve Kipp said. "It's just a rush that you couldn't get anywhere else. The crunching of cars is unlike anything else you've ever experienced."

Of course, the safety of the driver is the number one priority for all those involved. Roll cages are mandated, driver door shots are illegal, all glass must be removed from the car and one of the first lessons drivers learn is to let go of the wheel at the point of impact in order to prevent arm injuries.

Despite everyone's best efforts, bad things do happen, although sometimes, that's the fun of it all. Deerfield's Matt Thurber's car caught on fire in a championship competition Thursday. The car literally burst into flames to the cheers of the fans. After jumping out of the car and running like a deranged football player, Thurber bowed and raised his hands in triumph to the crowd.

"My first thought was to get the (expletive) out of there," Thurber said. "I was excited after it happened. I think I should get something for that. I just saw some smoke and then I saw a flame on the passenger side and I just jumped out of there and ran."

It's not about the machismo of smashing cars and technological prowess—there's a lot of humor within the sport as well. With a car destined for imminent destruction, a professional paintjob is not in the cards

'I do it for the road rage. I've been doing this for ten years and I can't get enough of it. I mean, where else can you go to just smash the other guy's car like this? It's just civilized road rage.'

for these machines, but that doesn't mean there isn't room for creativity. Ken "Dr. Demo" Applegate and his son, Steve "Dr. Demo Jr." Applegate both wear medical scrubs with both cars sporting white paintjobs with medical crosses. Dr. Demo's car features a large hypodermic needle made out of PVC pipe while Dr. Demo Jr. features a large Band-Aid on top of his car.

"I used to work for a hospital and I got the 'Dr. Demo' idea to paint some medical crosses on my car and put the needle on top," Applegate said. "It's been getting a good reaction from the fans and I think it's good for a laugh."

Dr. Demo Jr. just started on the destruction derby circuit, and the funny part about that is that he's just now able to drive. At the tender age of 16, Steve is following in his father's footsteps and enjoys the feeling of literally crushing the competition. Whether it's from the inspiration of his father or the simple enjoyment of the sport, Dr. Demo Jr. will be "practicing" for a long time.

"It is just such a rush when you hit someone," Steve said. "Once you get hit, the jolt is just amazing. I got into this because of my dad, but I think I'll be doing this for years after he's done."

Need for speed

Lake County Fair packs in crowd for 20th annual Motocross event

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

It doesn't take a rocket scientist to realize how much the world has changed in the last two decades. In July 1986, President Ronald Reagan was 18 months into his second term, Billy Ocean was at the top of the Billboard charts and the Cubs were well on their way to not winning the World Series — well, some things never change.

But Lake County certainly has. Two decades ago, Lake County had more farmland than homes and its annual fair was drawing less than 150,000 people per year. Two decades ago, there were no "extreme" sports or X-Games on ESPN. Heck, there barely was an ESPN.

And two decades ago, former Libertyville resident Bill Sparks decided to bring a fledgling sport called motocross to the fair. That first year, fair attendance jumped by more than 25,000, bolstered by the record 27,000-plus people who went on Thursday during the one-night motocross event.

"I used to do the races at Lambs Farm (in Libertyville) and I thought the fair was in need of that type of entertainment," said Sparks, who now lives near Rockford in Mendota, Ill. "The sport was growing and I thought the people would enjoy it. That one night was a record crowd for the fair."

The rest, as they say, is history. As motocross has evolved—from a sport played by kids on dirt bikes on makeshift tracks to a multi-million dollar proposition replete with national broadcasts, video games and a major motion picture due out this month—so too has the fair's annual event.

The second year saw a second night added, and another record Thursday crowd of more than 28,000.

By 1998 the event added a third night, which helped fair attendance top 250,000 for the first time. Despite a rainout on Tuesday, this year's event was just as successful, drawing more than 5,000 people a night.

There's also now a freestyle event, with some of the country's best jumpers showcasing their tricks.

"It's a great event," Sparks said. "There's a lot of action and the kids enjoy it. The following just seems to grow every year."

This year's event had 14 races in all, both pro and amateur, in five different cycle classes. The amateur events brought people from all over northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, while the pro class had some of the country's best riders, with some coming from as far as Oklahoma, Oregon and Georgia. There was also a freestyle event, which saw some of the country's top show jumpers take off to crowd-pleasing heights from a large ramp.

Pro rider Tom Hofmaster, from Pearl City in western Illinois, was this year's big winner. He won four events in all, taking home several thousand dollars for two days' work. The money, just as much as the need for speed, is helping draw more and more people to the sport.

"I've been doing this since I was 14 and I love it," said Hofmaster, now 25. "But it's also my job. This is a pretty big event, because you can win $10,000 in a weekend. It's something I want to do the rest of my life."

The Martin brothers, Ross and Dylan, of Pleasant Prairie, Wis., also got hooked at a young age by the need for speed.

"I started racing when I was 9," said Ross, now 20. "My dad told me whenever I started racing he would get me a new bike, so that was enough for me. I'm a speed freak."

'It's a great event. There's a lot of action and the kids enjoy it. The following just seems to grow every year.'

Bill Sparks
Motocross event promoter

Even after breaking his foot earlier this summer, 19-year-old Dylan has no intention of taking it easy once the cast comes off.

"It's killing me not to ride," he said. "Racing is in my blood."

If you had told Ross and Dylan when they started racing that they'd one day get paid for it, they would have thought you were crazy. But the Martins are now raking in the cash, especially in an offshoot sport called snocross, which eschews bikes in favor of snowmobiles — and they have no plans to stop any time soon.

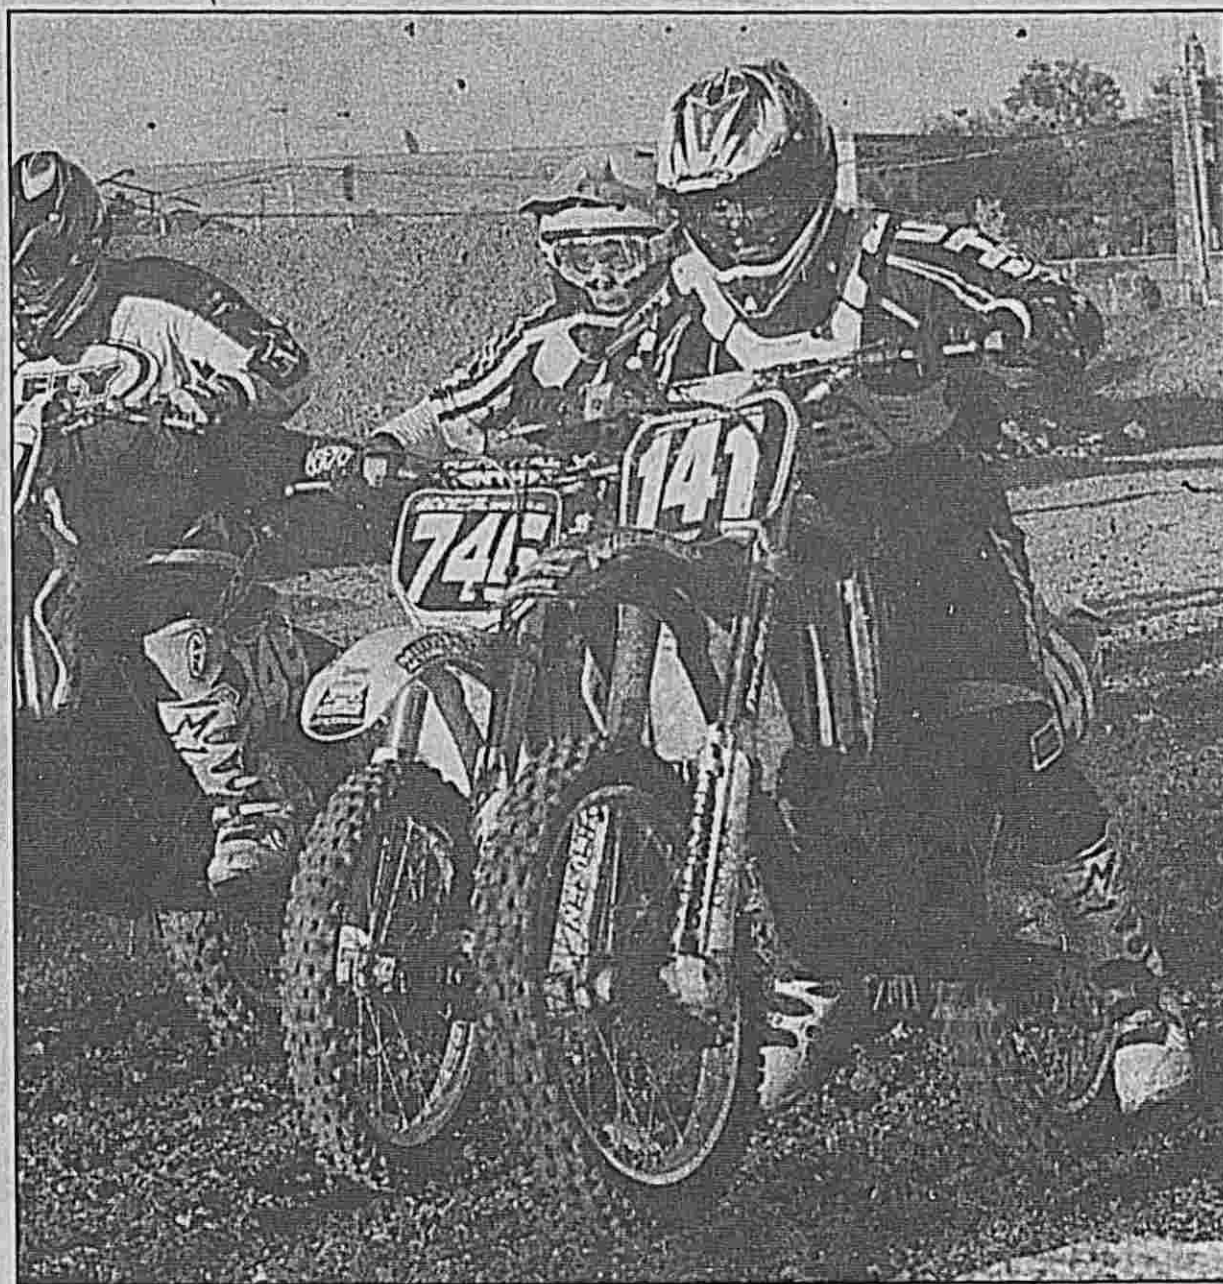

"I never thought I'd do this for a living when I was a kid," Ross said. "But after a few years I knew if I stuck with it, it would bring good things and it has."

Though he remains pleased with the event's success, Sparks would like to see it expand in coming years.

"We're at capacity every year," Sparks said. "I think we could fill double the size if we had another grandstand. Hopefully, the new (proposed) fairground will have more seating."

Sparks, though, will likely have to oversee that proposition from afar. Next year, the contract with the fair expires and Sparks plans to step aside and allow someone else to take the helm. He does, though, plan on going out with a bang.

"We never, ever do something less," Sparks said. "Next year will be as big as it can be."

A Town Without Pity

The safest place in Grayslake on Saturday, July 30th was Rock in the Park at Central Park. Staffed with 50 volunteers, Grayslake police and security all roamed the grounds of the festival.

What a pity for those whose only desire was to give Grayslake a day to remember. Joyce Campbell donated a thousand hours of her time over the past 8 months putting her heart and soul into a project she believes in, the Youth of Grayslake; your kids.

I watched a volunteer, Gregg Henkin, work tirelessly build the sound stage and rearrange it between acts. His day began early Friday morning and lasted to the wee hours of Sunday Morning. So many gave their time freely, all to support the youth of Grayslake. It was a town without pity, because so few families cared enough to support a project that, in the end, would help them.

Though the number of people you were hoping for did not show, Joyce Campbell, Gregg Henkin, volunteers, Grayslake Police, the town of Grayslake thanks you for a project extremely well done!

Eagles fastpitch forging new identity

Solid summer has Lakes flying high

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

Earlier this summer, players from the new Lakes Community High School varsity softball team gathered in the dugout prior to their first home game and put their hands in a circle. As they prepared to shout the team name prior to taking the field, there was a moment of pause.

The players took a moment to remember exactly what their mascot was because they weren't the Antioch Sequoits anymore. The hesitation lasted only a moment; then the players shouted "Eagles!" and ran out of the dugout.

"It was a memorable moment," said Lakes coach Julie Sexton, who had led the Antioch program the previous three seasons. "They said it with enthusiasm, but they were all surprised and kind of looked at each other after they said it."

Several players agreed with Sexton.

"It was strange because I was so used to saying Sequoits," said junior Ashton Pfeiffer, who played on Antioch's varsity team last spring.

"It felt wrong," sophomore Cali Behrendt said. "It just didn't sound right. First it was Sequoits, then (Lakeland) Aces, now it's Eagles."

Nora Kenney, however, had a different opinion.

"It felt a little easier for me because I had to say it during basketball," she said.

While the moment was strange for most of the players in June, they're now a little more at ease with being the Eagles — especially after the success they enjoyed this summer, both with the Eagles and with the Aces travel softball team.

"Our biggest goal was establishing our own identity," Sexton said. "We did a pretty good job of that and the players will continue to step into those shoes."

Sexton wanted the team to get used to playing with each other, so Lakes competed in a four-week league that was co-run by Lake Forest, Stevenson and Glenbrook South high schools. Playing a doubleheader each Monday night, the Eagles went 6-1-1 on the summer.

"It gave us a wonderful start for the chemistry of our program," Sexton said. "The kids aren't just happy, but the parents also started getting an idea of the face of the program. And I know a lot more about the team now than I did at the beginning of the summer."

Sexton did know what she had with the trio of Pfeiffer, Claire Seaver and Janae LaBaron, all of whom played for Sexton last season.

"Ashton can play wherever I need her, either in the outfield or the middle infield," Sexton said. "Claire was my starting third baseman last spring and hit in the middle of the order for me. Janae was more of a specialty player, but she's the fastest kid in the program. She's still developing her craft as a hitter."

Several players unfamiliar to Sexton also stepped up this summer, including Hannah Karstedt, Kenney, Jamie Braden, Behrendt, Shannon Kofoed and Nicole Robinson.

Bolstered by a winning record, Sexton feels the Eagles took a big step forward this summer.

"The kids were real proud of themselves; the summer gave them a reason to be optimistic next spring," Sexton said. "I just wanted some development so I didn't really focus on wins and losses, but we got the best of both worlds this summer."

The players are split on their feelings heading into the high school season.

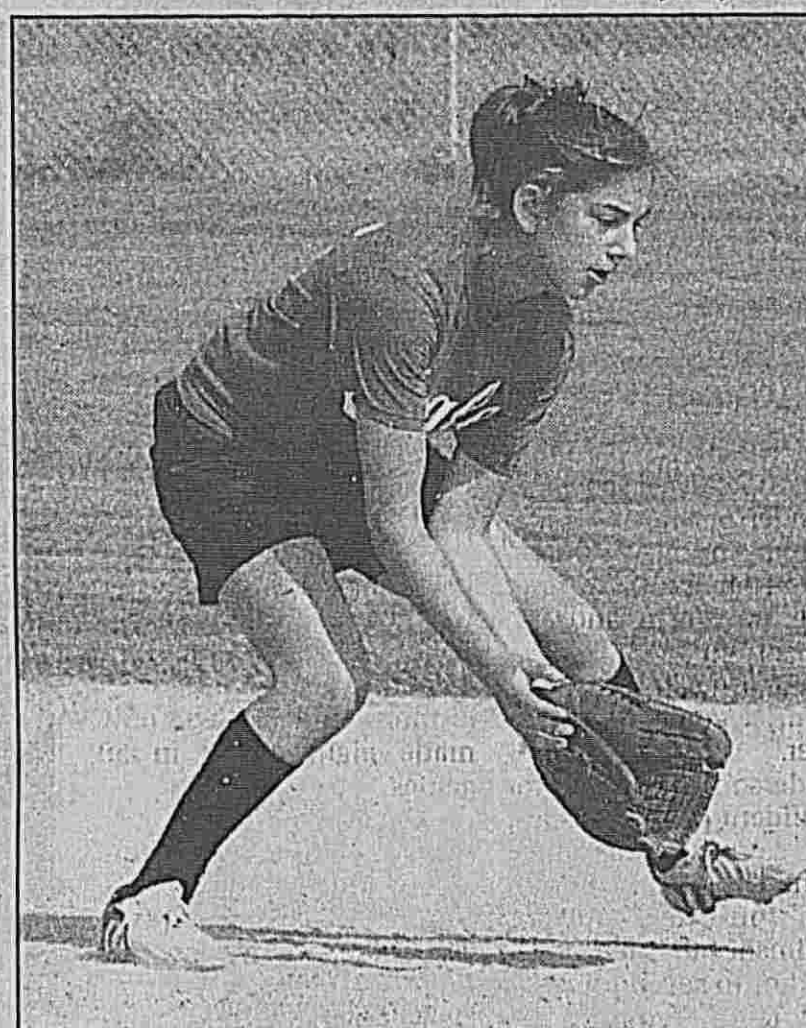

"I'm really looking forward to the season," Seaver said. "And I'm especially looking forward to beating Antioch."

"I don't think we'll be bad and I definitely think we'll win a few games," Behrendt said. "We just have to learn how to work together."

HOCKEY

now the only game in town is made by Sweden-based Stiga, with large handles replaced by tiny knobs at either end of the rink and the size of the players and sticks cut in half. Chargo actually prefers the new version.

"There a different skill level involved," Chargo said. "The sets you see in bars don't have as much skill; you just slap the puck around as hard as you can. This game takes more mental concentration and reflexes because it involves so many different moves."

"You have to use your hands and your mind at the same time because everything happens so quick. If your opponent is good, he'll try to anticipate what you're doing. You always have to be a step ahead."

Chargo's cat-like reflexes and excellent hand-eye coordination certainly come in handy in the game, as they have in the past with ping-pong, darts, foosball, air hockey and actual ice hockey. But table hockey remains his favorite pastime.

"I just love that one-on-one competition," Chargo said. "And this game really simulates a real hockey game and I excel at it. It also brings back some of my youth and lets my competitive juices flow."

As a teenager, Chargo did well in several tournaments but never took home more than a couple hundred dollars for his efforts. But last year's U.S. Open title brought him $500, while the next major tournament, slated for Las Vegas in January, will fetch the winner at least $1,000.

While the game is growing in the U.S., Europe remains home to the best players in the world. Chargo lost to Kenny Dubois, the top-ranked player in the country, at this year's U.S. Open. However, Dubois barely cracks the top 50 in the world rankings.

Nonetheless, Chargo is considering taking on the world's best at the next world championship, to be held in Moscow in 2007.

crashes that garner the most attention.

If racing just isn't your thing, then I would suggest tractor pulls because they are truly a sight to behold. From flawless tractors from the 1950s giving it their best shot to crazy Unlimited Class machines with multiple blown engines and helicopter motors creating 12,000 horsepower, the pull will shake you to your bones with sheer technological prohess. Even those who dismiss such a sport will be awestruck by the power of these machines. Just remember, if you want to ever hear your loved ones again, be sure to pack some earplugs for these contests.

Demolition derbies are yet another extension of our collective bloodlust as beat-up old cars smash into each other for a gladiator-esque last-man-standing atmosphere. These contests will have sugar plumbs of running idiots off of I-94 dancing in your head weeks after the event. After all, we all love the smell of gasoline in the morning — it's the smell of victory.

For those in need of some classic athlete-on-athlete action without the crutch of hulking machines or animals, then it's time for some eating contests. I know that many are quick to dismiss these competitors, but if you can control your gag reflex for just a little bit, you can witness an all-out war between a man and his stomach with delicious pies or hotdogs serving as casualties.

So, let's all dust off our straw hats, try on our overalls and get ready for a rootin'-tootin' good time. I'll see you there with my trusty fried Snickers in hand.

A furious finish

Gurnee Storm softball teams go out on top

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

Given the success this summer of the Gurnee Storm travel softball program, it's hard to believe that only three years ago it didn't exist.

Yet the Storm has grown from 13 kids on just one team that first summer to 48 on four teams this year — with all four teams flourishing at one time or another this summer. The program has also begun to branch out to the rest of Lake County, taking in kids from Antioch, Beach Park, Libertyville, Lake Forest and Zion.

"We just wanted the girls to have a chance to play at a more competitive level," said John Anderson, the program's president and co-founder. "So five of us got together and started the Storm and it's grown so much. It's very strong right now and I think it's only going to get stronger."

Anderson has reason to be confident given the success at every level this summer. The 12-U team boasted several top-three tournament finishes and the 14-U team went to seven tournaments, taking home second- and third-place trophies and a consolation title.

But the program struck its biggest blow at a tournament in Rockford last week. Its two 16-U teams, the Storm Blue and Storm Gold, shared the title of the 15-team tournament, electing not to play the title game after several players collapsed in 100-degree heat.

"We figured it was a win for the whole program for us to share the title," said Storm Blue coach Keith Whitlock. "We had to play three games in 103-degree weather and two kids dropped from heat exhaustion."

The Storm Blue team has undoubtedly been the program's most successful. Although its national tournament was cancelled, the team still managed to finish the summer by winning three straight tournaments and 20 of its last 23 games for a 37-13 final record.

"We just managed to find our chemistry," Whitlock said. "We settled into a pretty good lineup and several of our hitters had great second halves to the summer."

No two players were bigger to Gurnee's second-half dominance than Ashley Milam and Haley Myers. Milam was hitting .115 in early July, but hit .346 in her final 25 games and was third on the team with 26 RBI.

Myers also started off slow, but ended up second on

'The success we had this summer just shows how much this program is progressing. We've gone from one team three years ago with no titles to four teams and four titles this year.'

John Anderson
Gurnee Storm president

the team in hitting (.347 average), RBI (32), extra base hits (14), walks (13) and sacrifice bunts (10) and hit .442 in her final 20 games.

"Once they found their bats, their gloves got better too," Whitlock said. "Ashley was making a lot of errors, but she really turned it around and Haley only made eight errors in 50 games."

Of course, Brittney Jones started off hot last spring and continued right into the summer. She led the team in every offensive category, hitting .463 with 11 homers, eight triples, 50 RBI, 47 runs scored and 30 steals. She also provided sound defense and a strong arm in center field.

"She can beat you in so many different ways," Whitlock said. "In a lot of our tournament stops, she was the best player. She was worth the price of admission and the best is yet to come for (her) in the future."

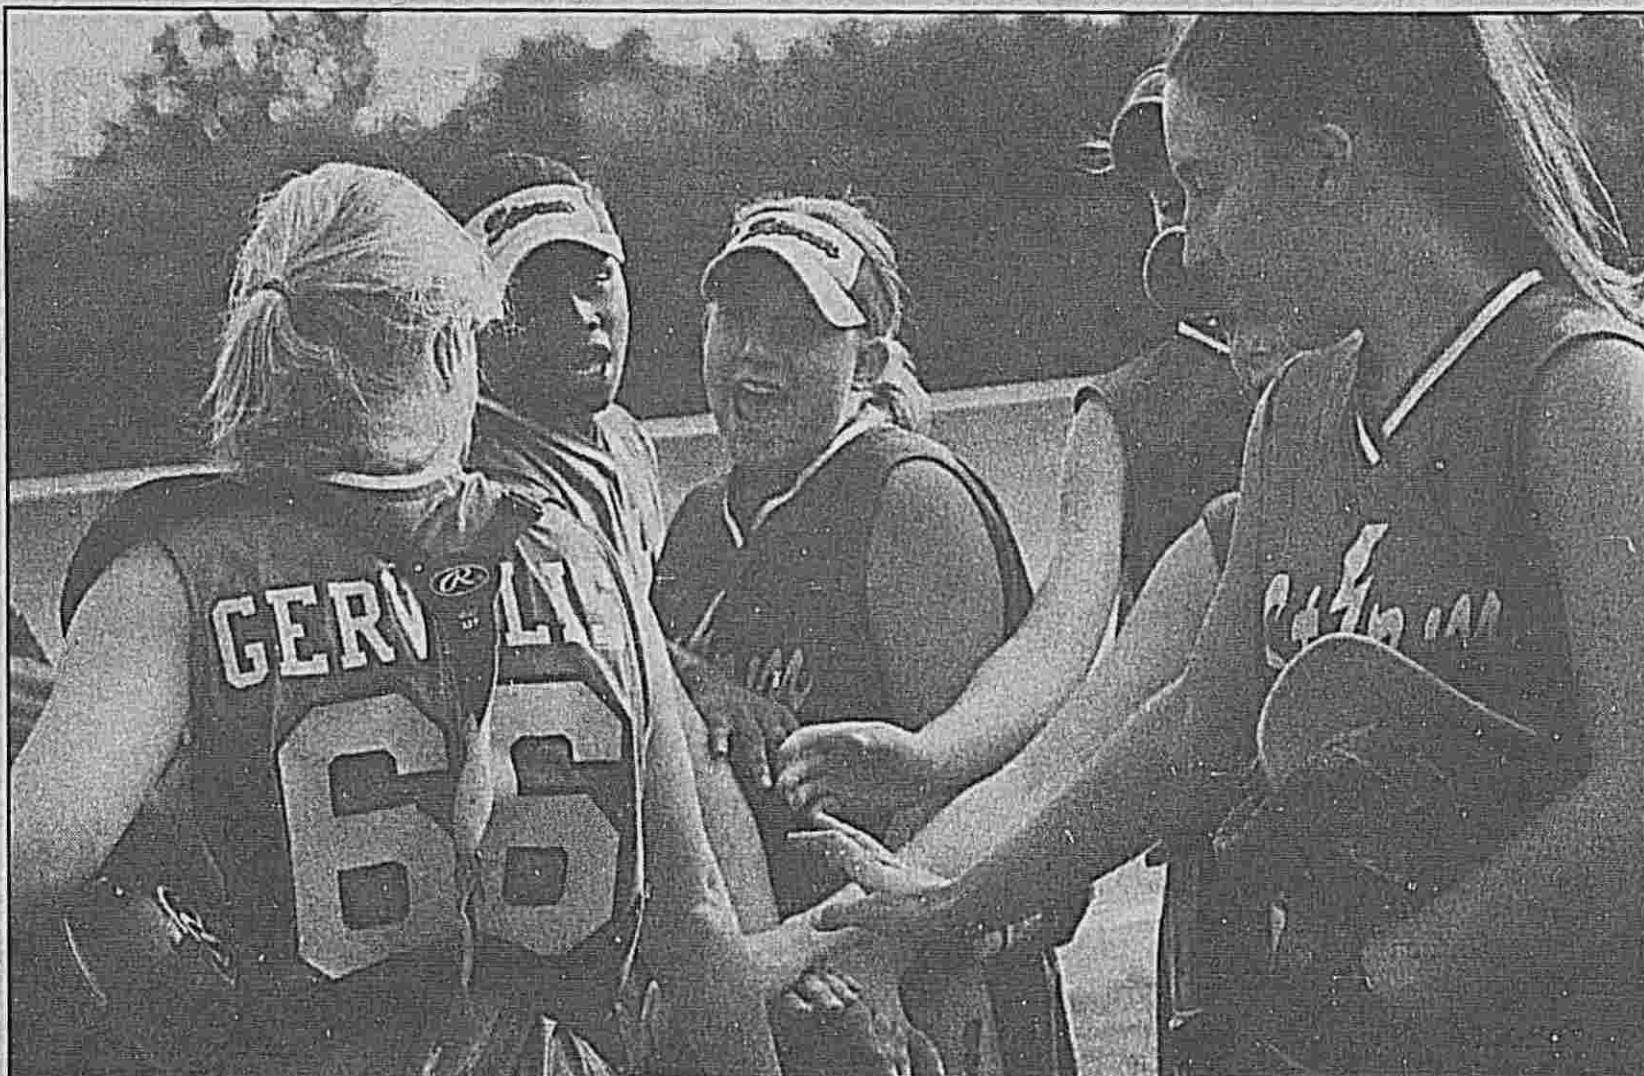

Whitlock also praised the efforts of several other players, including Marissa Bell, Ali Haws, Leanne Kaczmar, Whitney Gervelis, Andrea Raffles and Courtney Whitlock.

The team's success started last fall when the team went 9-3 in an 18-U league and it carried over into the spring, with the Warren High team finishing with its best record in several years. And Whitlock feels things will only improve.

"I think it bodes very well for the high school," Whitlock said. "If this was a summer project for the girls, they'd get an A-plus. I've been working with some of these girls since they were 8 or 9 and to see them really mesh as a team is great."

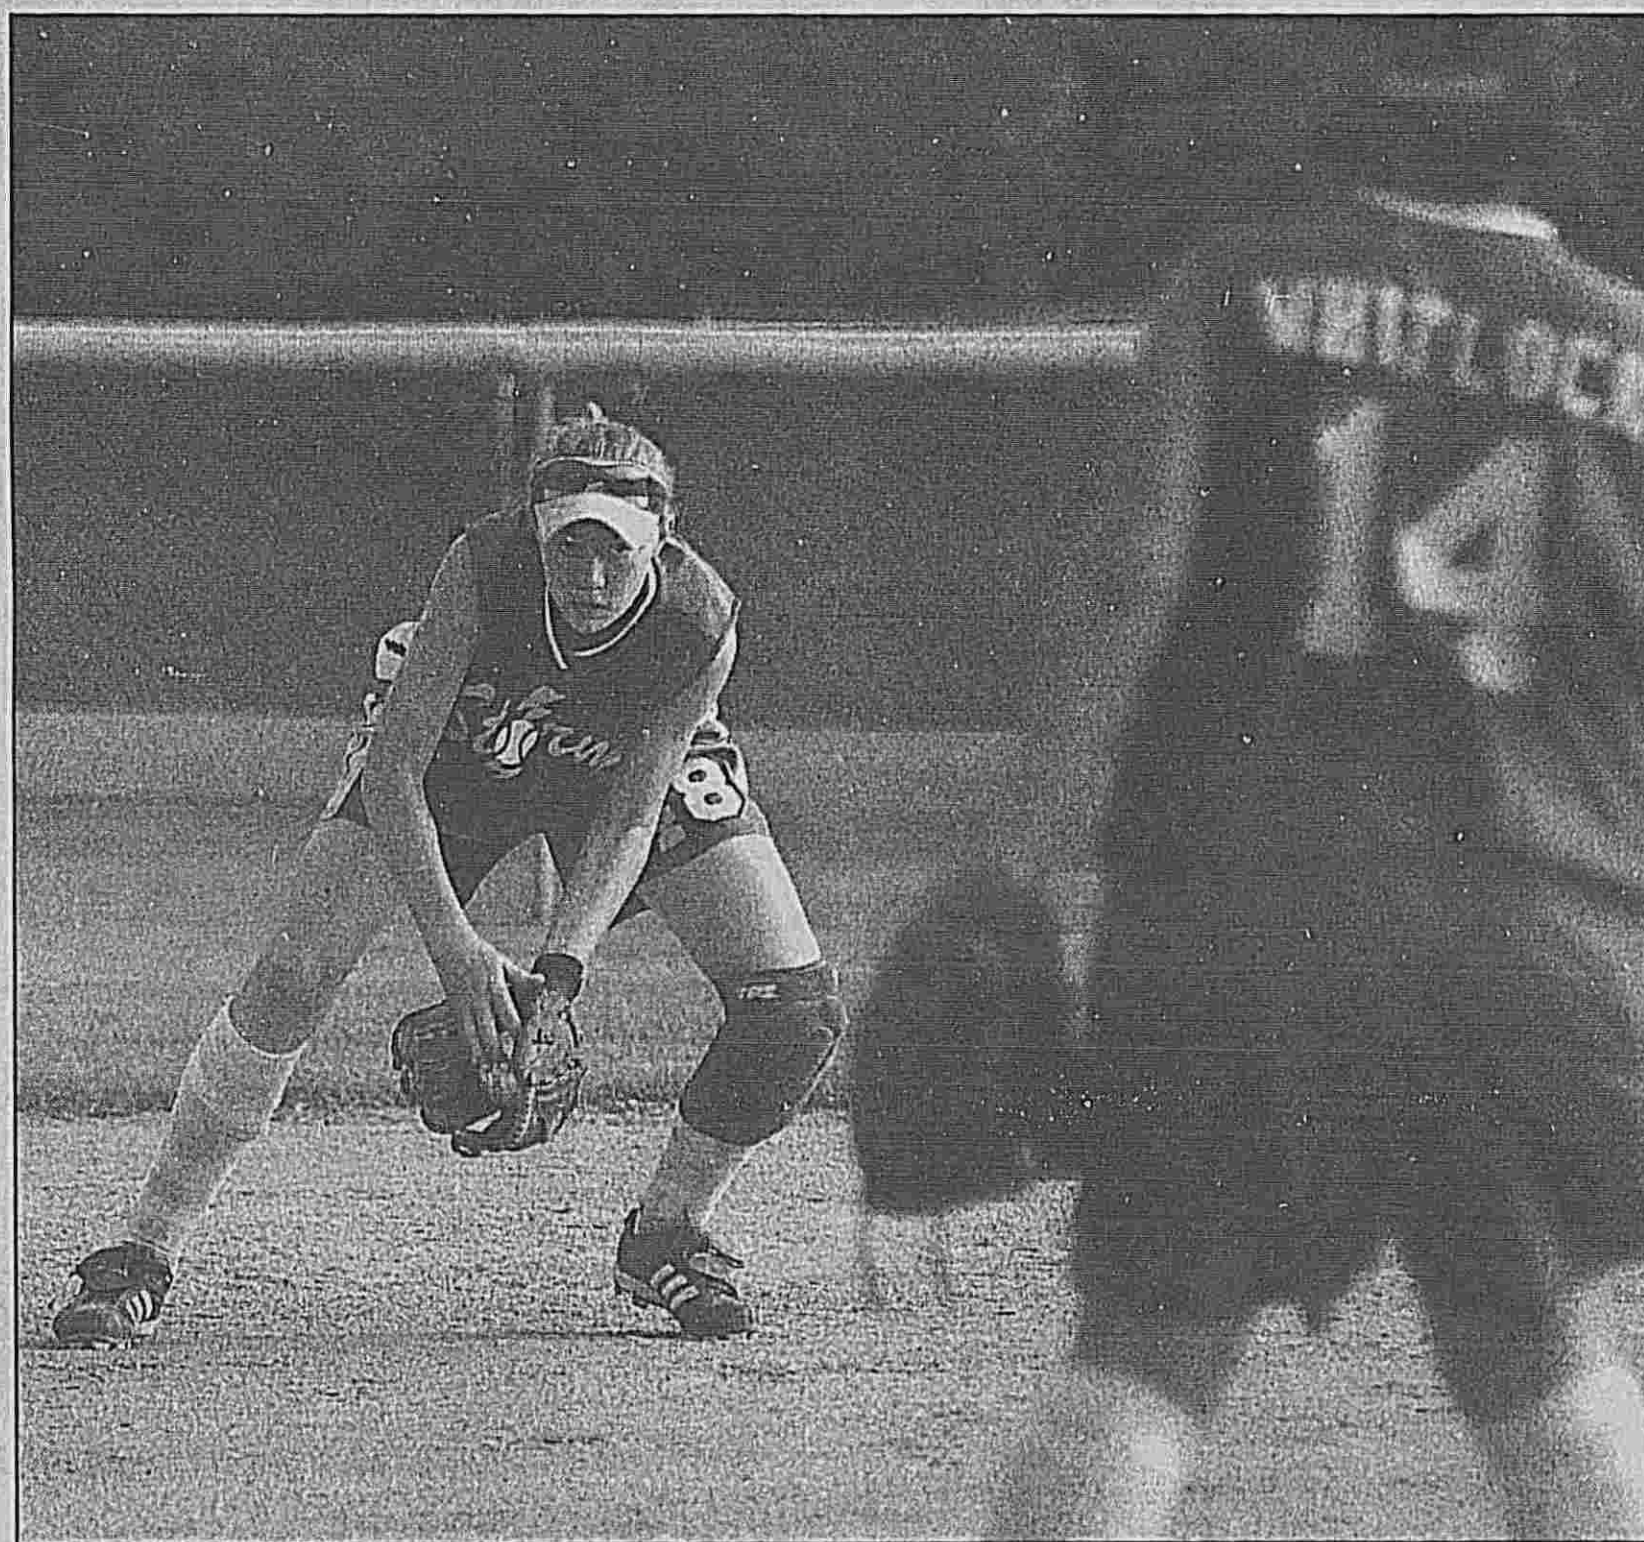

Anderson agrees that the community's softball future is bright.

"The success we had this summer just shows how much this program is progressing," Anderson said. "We've gone from one team three years ago with no titles to four teams and four titles this year."
